—Compulsory Policy Rejected— Ike Proposes $25 Million Health Re-Insurance Fund

President Asks Limited Support Behind Private Insurance Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower asked Congress Monday to put limited government support behind private health insurance plans so they can protect American families against the "catastrophe" of prolonged major illnesses.

Eisenhower proposed creation of a 25 million dollar fund to re-insure such plans against "the special additional risks" of expanding benefits for their members.

He didn't indicate how much the insurance plans might have to boost fees for subscribers to give them extra protection against disastrous medical and hospital bills. One expert thinks it might be no more than $50 a year per family.

Neither did the President say exactly how the re-insurance program would work. Presumably it would operate something like government insurance of bank deposits.

"The best way for most of our people to obtain good medical care," Eisenhower said, "is to participate in voluntary health insurance plans."

That presented rejection of the Truman administration's idea for compulsory government health insurance, which never made any headway in Congress.

'Regimentation'
In a special message to the lawmakers—one of a series filling in details of the legislative program he outlined to Congress 12 days ago—the President again spoke out against "government regimentation" or socialization of medicine.

But he also said no nation or administration can be complacent about the health of its people. And with the national medical bill running up to nine billion dollars a year and still rising, Eisenhower urged Congress to give "early and favorable consideration" to recommendations for:

1. The re-insurance system.
2. A five-year plan to restore 660,000 disabled persons to productive work. The President said, "We are losing ground at a distressing rate" in this field because 250,000 persons are disabled every year and only 60,000 are returned to fully productive lines. Yet, he said, it costs more to care for the disabled than to rehabilitate them.
3. Greater federal aid for states and localities in building hospitals for the chronically ill plus expansion of the program to provide for construction of non-profit clinics, rehabilitation centers for the disabled and nursing and convalescent homes.

Progressive Step
4. Continuing present activities of the public health service.

5. Simplifying the complex, patchwork formula for grants of government money for health, child welfare and other programs to make it "more responsive to the needs of the states and their citizens."

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) described the Eisenhower program as "a progressive step" toward improving the nation's health—one which he said will get "sympathetic consideration" in Congress.

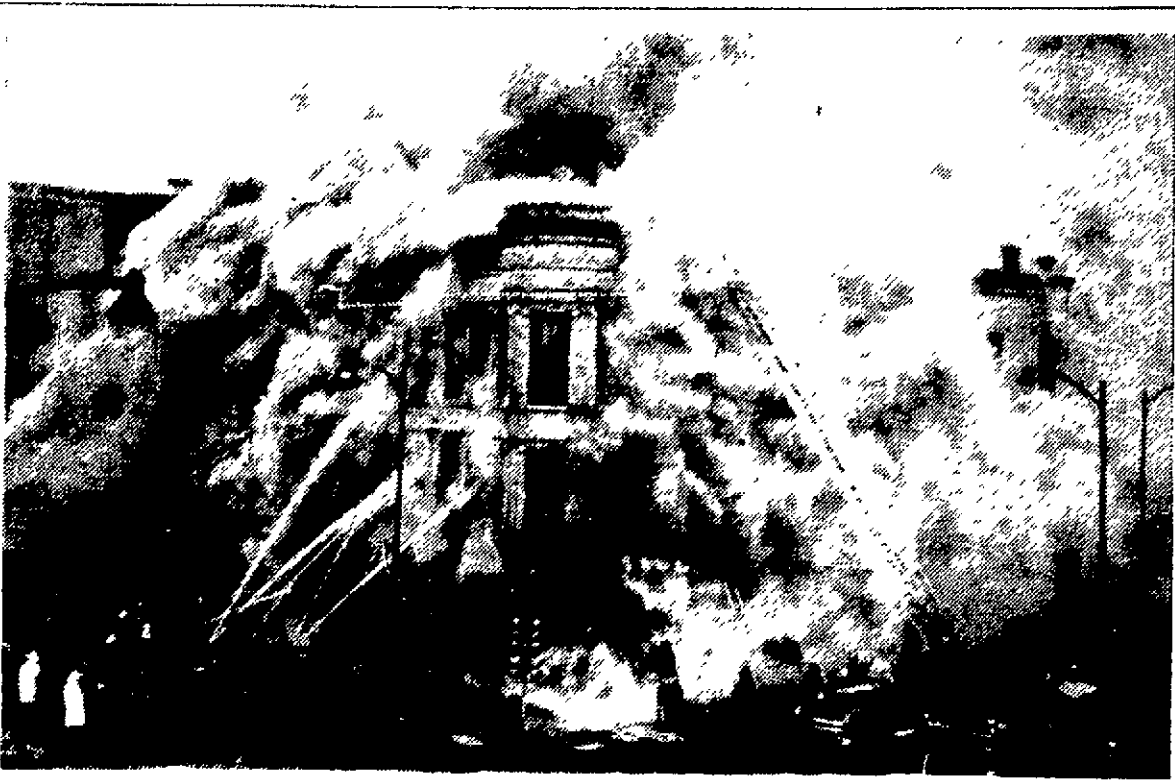

Ike's re-insurance proposal apparently means that such organizations as Blue Cross and Blue Shield would turn over to a government agency part of the fees they collect from subscribers and in turn receive insurance against heavy payments for benefits beyond those they now offer. The arrangement also would apply to private insurance companies offering medical plans.

'Optional' Assessment Plan Will Be Proposed

Guide For Business Schedules Recommended After Tax Meeting

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

An option on two depreciation schedules for assessment of furniture, fixtures, tools and equipment will be recommended to the state county assessors association to be used as a guide in this year's assessment, Arthur Davis of Lincoln, chairman of the committee on business schedules said Monday.

The decision came following an all day meeting with Gov. Robert Crosby, Tax Commissioner George Peterson and representatives of business and public accountants.

They will recommend adoption of a policy that would let business firms make their choice of one of the two options in 1954 and be bound to follow the same procedure in later years. The options are:

- (1) Book value as shown on Schedule F of income tax reports but not to exceed 80 per cent of actual cost.
- (2) Forty per cent depreciation for each of the first two years; 50 per cent the third and fourth years; 60 per cent the fifth and sixth years; 70 per cent the seventh and eighth years and 80 per cent eight years and older.

Ross Martin, Lincoln accountant argued that it is custom in many business firms to completely depreciate items and build revolving funds for replacement which would also be taxed. He argued for adoption of the income tax formula with complete depreciation.

Others argued that many of the smaller firms do not have the complete records of the larger firms and that the income tax formula would penalize them.

The Davis committee composed of Henry Brees, Pierce, Lloyd R. Freburg, Phelps, C. E. Chamberlain, Dawes, and Loris H. Anderson, Boyd, decided to recommend the optional plan.

Premier Of Ceylon Hits Reds

Formation Of Strong Asian Bloc Is Urged

By HAROLD K. MILKS
NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Ceylon's Premier Sir John Kotelawala called on the people of Southeast Asia Monday night to join forces against "the ugly form of Communism lying on our doorsteps."

He pledged his nation's all-out support in fighting the Reds.

Addressing a public meeting in India's Parliament House, the visiting premier declared: "Communism thrives because we in democratic countries honor the liberty of our citizens, and communism is entirely foreign to the religious, cultural and social traditions of our people."

The declaration brought cheers from the audience which included India's Prime Minister Nehru, members of his cabinet and many foreign diplomats.

Ceylon has been the target of American criticism for trading with Red China, but Kotelawala has contended the association is "only an economic one involving no friendship on his part."

Talks With Nehru
Kotelawala, who just ended a three-day conference with Nehru, following a similar parley with Prime Minister Mohammed Ali of Pakistan, wants the chiefs of five South Asian states to get together next spring to discuss the problems facing them, including the spreading of the Red tide.

He said his idea to convene the prime ministers of India, Indonesia, Ceylon, Burma and Pakistan is "to remove obstacles to progress and friendship among the peoples of this part of the world."

"Upon the co-operation of the Asian countries hangs the fate of Asia," Kotelawala declared.

"With the world divided into two camps, the emergence of an Asian bloc which both sides may respect and hear may well be the only means to avert a third world war."

"The voice of six hundred million people of south and southeast Asia is the voice of one-fourth of the globe."

Bryan Fighting Ouster Petition

Lincoln Star Special
HEBRON, Neb. — Thayer County Commissioner Harry D. Bryan told The Star Monday night that he has employed counsel and will "fight to the end" the ouster suit filed against him.

The suit, filed by two Lincoln attorneys in behalf of a taxpayer, Kermit C. Nelson, was in the form of a petition alleging "irregularities in office," including use of county equipment for private purposes.

Filing of the suit was followed by a state auditor's report charging the Thayer County board with improper handling of certain funds.

Cecil Way, state accountant from the office of State Auditor Ray C. Johnson, stated, "I want it clearly understood we're not accusing any one of embezzlement."

He explained some money handled by the board had not been channeled through the county treasurer's office so a record was kept of it.

Base Strength Is Doubled

The strength of the Lincoln Air Force Base has just about doubled in the past two weeks, Col. Ervin Wursten, base commander, disclosed Monday.

About 150 men and six officers have been added to the total strength of the base. Col. Wursten said that the new additions were coming in at about a dozen a day.

The strength is expected to reach 700-800 men by April when the first squadron of planes, KC-97 tankers, arrives at the base.

Council Holds Zone Protest For Study

The City Council has held further study the protested application of H. R. Kurth and Albert Schwartz for a change from residential to highway business zoning of property on the west side of No. 10th between Oak and Salt Creeks.

Applicants for the change, through their attorney Homer L. Kyle, contended that the property was zoned residential by the city's new zoning law so it could be purchased at a lower price as part of the Oak Creek Park development. This, maintained Kyle, is not a proper use of the police power on which zoning is based.

The change was protested by Jeannie Shankland on behalf of the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce and Ray Tankersley on behalf of the Lincoln Boat Club. Both asserted the property would make an excellent approach to Oak Creek Park.

Only one ordinance was introduced on first reading, that for creation of a graveling district in 63rd from Holdrege to 80 feet south of Starr, 64th from Holdrege to Starr and Starr from 63rd to 64th.

Set for hearing at a special Council meeting Thursday morning was the application of Harvey Rathbone for a permit to use four lots on the west side of 28th between Orchard and Y for off-street parking.

Unlawful Cigarette Shipment Charge Is Filed By U.S.

Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty Charles Thone has filed an information against the Veterans Purchasing Corporation of Virginia, doing business as the Veterans Purchasing Agency with a branch office at Joplin, Mo.

The information in four counts alleges inter-state commerce shipments to three Lincoln residents and a Beatrice resident were made in August, 1953, and the defendant firm in violation of federal law failed subsequently to file invoices with the Nebraska tobacco tax administrator.

India To Act Jan. 20

U.N. Lays Plans To Free 22,039 On Saturday

PANMUNJOM (Tuesday) (AP)—The Indian Command today announced it will begin the return to the United Nations Command of 22,000 anti-Red prisoners tomorrow despite Communist refusal to approve or disapprove of the plan.

At the same time, an Indian spokesman said pro-Communist prisoners would not be returned to the Reds tomorrow.

The brief Indian announcement came just before a meeting of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

Indian Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya was expected to put on the record at the meeting the Indian position—much of which has come directly from Indian Prime Minister Nehru in New Delhi.

Hull To Korea
Gen. John E. Hull, U. N. Far East commander, flew to Korea from Tokyo today for the POW return. He said processing of the prisoners would start as soon as they are returned and he would consider them "civilians wherever they happen to be at midnight Friday night."

"I am reiterating our position," Hull told correspondents at Seoul. "I have no orders to make any change."

The Indian Command here said the Communists had not replied to the Indian plan which would have turned back both Communist and anti-Communist prisoners tomorrow.

The Indians made the proposal in an effort to evade a diplomatic squeeze over whether or not they had the duty to hold the prisoners after Jan. 23 as the Communists claim.

Reds Opposed
In New Delhi, the Chinese Communists told the Indian government they were opposed to Thimayya's plan.

Meanwhile, it was reliably learned that Chinese Reds have put the pressure on Thimayya by dealing with him in recent days only through New Delhi, rather than from Communist and North Korean headquarters at Kaesong.

Lt. Gen. Shankshear M. Bryan, in overall charge of receiving the anti-Red prisoners, visited Thimayya this morning to iron out final arrangements.

Thimayya apparently decided that the return of the prisoners tomorrow was the only course of action left open to him.

The U.N. command held drills on handling POWs.

Writes Both Sides
Thimayya wrote both sides Jan. 14 that since they could not agree on disposition of the prisoners he had decided on his own to turn them back, starting this Wednesday, and asked for replies by Jan. 16.

On that date, Gen. John E. Hull, U. N. Far East commander, replied, saying his command would accept custody although feeling the commission had the "solemn obligation" under the armistice to keep the prisoners until Jan. 23 and then declare them civilians.

The Reds, while telling India in a note to New Delhi they "intensely disliked" the decision, have yet to reply to Thimayya's saying whether they would take back the 21 Americans, one Briton and 37 South Koreans in the pro-Red camp.

Monday in Panmunjom, Red and Allied liaison officers tried vainly for the third time since Thursday to agree on resumption of preliminary talks that would arrange a peace conference. The officers decided to try again Wednesday. The Reds asked for the one-day break.

City Light Employees Ask Raise

Wage Hikes Totalling
$15,155 Requested

Line department employees of the Commercial Light Department and the city's A Street power plant employees have requested wage increases totalling $15,155.

The increases are asked to bring the men up to the line department standards of Consumers Public Power District and the scale in the Nebraska Public Power System's K Street power plant.

The increase to 25 line department employees totals $4,355 at the rate of 9 cents an hour. For 21 power plant employees, the requested increase totals $10,800, also at the rate of 9 cents per hour.

It was pointed out by City Engineer D. L. Erickson that neither group of employees were given an increase at budget making time in September. Wages for the men involved, he explained, have always been tied to the scale of Consumers and the NPPS, who both operate on a calendar year rather than fiscal year basis.

Councilman Pat Ash objected to that method of operation. The city, said Ash, should establish wages according to its own operation, not Consumers or the NPPS.

There may be some cases, he said, where the city would have to pay less and other cases where more would be in line.

Erickson is to arrange a meeting during the week between the Council and Consumers so the city can be informed on the basis on which Consumers granted its wage increases.

'Optional' Assessment Plan Will Be Proposed

Guide For Business Schedules
Recommended After Tax Meeting

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

An option on two depreciation schedules for assessment of furniture, fixtures, tools and equipment will be recommended to the state county assessors association to be used as a guide in this year's assessment, Arthur Davis of Lincoln, chairman of the committee on business schedules said Monday.

The decision came following an all day meeting with Gov. Robert Crosby, Tax Commissioner George Peterson and representatives of business and public accountants.

They will recommend adoption of a policy that would let business firms make their choice of one of the two options in 1954 and be bound to follow the same procedure in later years. The options are:

(1) Book value as shown on Schedule F of income tax reports but not to exceed 80 per cent of actual cost.

(2) Forty per cent depreciation for each of the first two years; 50 per cent the third and fourth years; 60 per cent the fifth and sixth years; 70 per cent the seventh and eighth years and 80 per cent eight years and older.

Arguments Cross
Ross Martin, Lincoln accountant, argued that it is custom in many business firms to completely depreciate items and build revolving funds for replacement which would also be taxed. He argued for adoption of the income tax formula with complete depreciation.

Others argued that many of the smaller firms do not have the complete records of the larger firms and that the income tax formula would penalize them.

The Davis committee composed of Henry Brees, Pierce; Lloyd R. Freburg, Phelps; C. E. Chamberlain, Dawes, and Loris H. Anderson, Boyd, decided to recommend the optional plan.

State Tax Commissioner Peterson agreed to work out a depreciation schedule pattern for household goods that would be geared to the business schedules. It would be on a dollar basis in relation to actual cost.

Says Businesses Better
Martin contended that business schedules were nearer to uniformity and actual value than the personal schedules of individuals. Peterson answered by saying that business schedules were revealed in a survey to range from 9 to 90 per cent of actual value.

Harold Swan of Kearney pointed to a brief survey he had made of returns of assessments in Buffalo county and that it was apparent there was a large number of taxpayers who failed to list guns. He suggested that assessors point out that tax on a gun is only 20 to 25 cents and that failure to report might mean a special firearms tax.

Martin insisted that depreciation schedules could not be equitable because different types of property depreciate at different speeds. Some he insisted when installed become worthless because it would cost more to remove them than they would bring salvage.

Peterson said that the household depreciation schedule to be suggested will be prepared as rapidly as possible so that individuals can become familiar with it before making returns on March 10.

He defended putting the floor of 20 per cent of cost on all property. While it might be actually worth less, he said, the taxpayer is getting the benefit of the large depreciation on new goods he may have purchased.

The depreciation schedule is an effort to bring about equalization of personal taxes in all sections of the state.

Lincoln coffee drinkers may soon have to reach deeper into their pocket books.

A Lincoln grocer reported Monday that wholesale coffee prices have reached $1.01 a pound. Coffee is now retailing for 97 cents, but a price boost is inevitable unless the wholesale price drops, he said.

A national trade journal reports that coffee may hit $1.20 to $1.25 a pound wholesale unless the green coffee market eases or customer resistance is too great, he said.

The price of coffee was boosted three cents by the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., Monday in the New York City area, the Associated Press reported. Coffee is now selling for $1.03 retail. Safeway Stores said it would follow suit Tuesday.

Base Strength Is Doubled

The strength of the Lincoln Air Force Base has just about doubled in the past two weeks, Col. Ervin Wursten, base commander, disclosed Monday.

About 150 men and six officers have been added to the total strength of the base. Col. Wursten said that the new additions were coming in at about a dozen a day.

The strength is expected to reach 700-800 men by April when the first squadron of planes, KC-97 tankers, arrives at the base.

Council Holds
Zone Protest
For Study

The City Council has held further study the protested application of H. R. Kurth and Albert Schwartz for a change from residential to highway business zoning of property on the west side of No. 10th between Oak and Salt Creeks.

Applicants for the change, through their attorney Homer L. Kyle, contended that the property was zoned residential by the city's new zoning law so it could be purchased at a lower price as part of the Oak Creek Park development. This, maintained Kyle, is not a proper use of the police power on which zoning is based.

The change was protested by Jeannie Shankland on behalf of the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce and Ray Tankersly on behalf of the Lincoln Boat Club. Both asserted the property would make an excellent approach to Oak Creek Park.

Only one ordinance was introduced on first reading, that for creation of a graveling district in 63rd from Holdrege to 80 feet south of Starr, 64th from Holdrege to Starr and Starr from 63rd to 64th.

Set for hearing at a special Council meeting Thursday morning was the application of Harvey Rathbone for a permit to use four lots on the west side of 28th between Orchard and Y for off-street parking.

Unlawful Cigarette
Shipment Charge
Is Filed By U.S.

A Federal information alleging unlawful shipments into Nebraska of cigarettes to persons other than license distributors without filing an invoice with the state tobacco tax administrator has been filed in Federal District Court here.

Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty Charles Thone has filed an information against the Veterans Purchasing Corporation of Virginia, doing business as the Veterans Purchasing Agency with a branch office at Joplin, Mo.

The information in four counts alleges inter-state commerce shipments to three Lincoln residents and a Beatrice resident were made in August, 1953, and the defendant firm in violation of federal law failed subsequently to file invoices with the Nebraska tobacco tax administrator.

Dr. Angle Approves
Ike's New Health Plan

Dr. Everett E. Angle, president of the Lancaster County Medical Association, said Monday he sees nothing but good in President Eisenhower's health insurance program proposals.

"I am only too glad to see a broader coverage of health and accident insurance," he said.

The purchase was contested because the Highway company bid was not low. The low bid was submitted by the A-W Co. on an Austin-Western sweeper for $8,228.50.

The A-W sweeper, however, did not meet specifications. Only one vote, that of Councilman Chauncey W. D. Kinsey, was cast against the Elgin sweeper.

Unanimously approved by the council was the $41,598 bid of the General Electric Co. for furnishing the city one 6,000-kilowatt transformer for the A Street power station.

India To Act Jan. 20

U.N. Lays Plans To
Free 22,039
On Saturday

PANMUNJOM (Tuesday) (AP)—The Indian Command today announced it will begin the return to the United Nations Command of 22,000 anti-Red prisoners tomorrow despite Communist refusal to approve or disapprove of the plan.

At the same time, an Indian spokesman said pro-Communist prisoners would not be returned to the Reds tomorrow.

The brief Indian announcement came before a meeting of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

Indian Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya was expected to put on the record at the meeting the Indian position—much of which has come directly from Indian Prime Minister Nehru in New Delhi.

Hull To Korea
Gen. John E. Hull, U. N. Far East commander, flew to Korea from Tokyo today for the POW return. He said processing of the prisoners would start as soon as they are returned and he would consider them "civilians wherever they happen to be at midnight Friday night."

"I am reiterating our position," Hull told correspondents at Seoul. "I have no orders to make any change."

The Indian Command here said the Communists had not replied to the Indian plan which would have turned back both Communist and anti-Communist prisoners tomorrow.

The Indians made the proposal in an effort to evade a diplomatic squeeze over whether or not they had the duty to hold the prisoners after Jan. 23 as the Communists claim.

Reds Opposed
In New Delhi, the Chinese Communists told the Indian government they were opposed to Thimayya's plan.

Meanwhile, it was reliably learned that Chinese Reds have put the pressure on Thimayya by dealing with him in recent days only through New Delhi, rather than from Communist and North Korean headquarters at Kaesong.

Lt. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, in overall charge of receiving the anti-Red prisoners, visited Thimayya this morning to iron out final arrangements.

Thimayya apparently decided that the return of the prisoners tomorrow was the only course of action left open to him.

The U.N. command held drills on handling POWs.

Writes Both Sides
Thimayya wrote both sides Jan. 14 that since they could not agree on disposition of the prisoners he had decided on his own to turn them back, starting this Wednesday, and asked for replies by Jan. 16.

On that date, Gen. John E. Hull, U. N. Far East commander, replied, saying his command would accept custody although feeling the commission had the "solemn obligation" under the armistice to keep the prisoners until Jan. 23 and then declare them civilians.

The Reds, while telling India in a note to New Delhi they "intensely disliked" the decision, have yet to reply to Thimayya saying whether they would take back the 21 Americans, one Briton and 327 South Koreans in the pro-Red camp.

Monday in Panmunjom, Red and Allied liaison officers tried vainly for the third time since Thursday to agree on resumption of preliminary talks that would arrange a peace conference. The officers decided to try again Wednesday. The Reds asked for the one-day break.

Sweeper Squabble
Ends; Bid Of $9,250
Okayed By Council

The controversial purchase of a new street sweeper has been disposed of by the City Council with acceptance of the $9,250 bid of the Highway Equipment and Supply Co. for furnishing the city an Elgin sweeper.

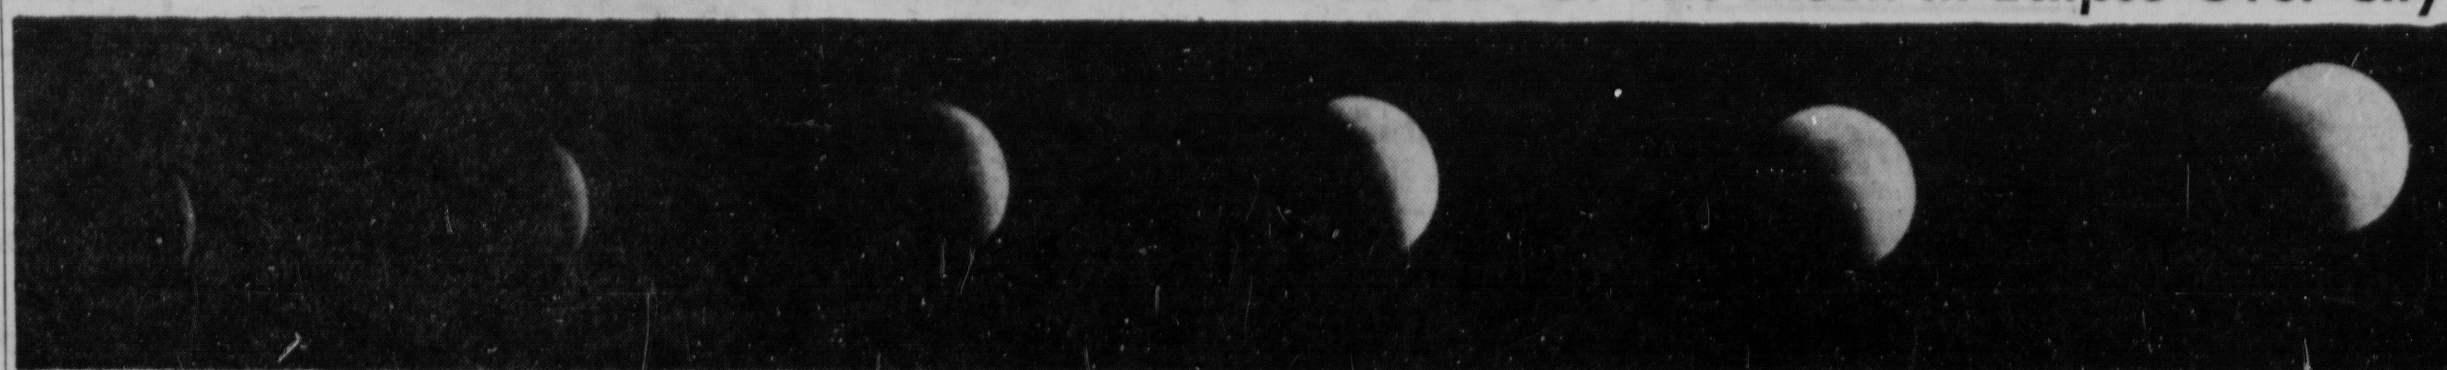

The purchase was contested because the Highway company bid was not low. The low bid was submitted by the A-W Co. on an Austin-Western sweeper for $8,228.50.

The A-W sweeper, however, did not meet specifications. Only one vote, that of Councilman Chauncey W. D. Kinsey, was cast against the Elgin sweeper.

Unanimously approved by the council was the $41,598 bid of the General Electric Co. for furnishing the city one 6,000-kilowatt transformer for the A Street power station.

—Farm Program—

Benson Warns Critics

Ag Surplus Worth A Billion For Foreign Aid Is Proposed

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration offered a plan Monday to use a billion dollars worth of farm surpluses for foreign aid, but the offer did not soften Senate critics of the President's proposal for flexible farm price supports.

Opening the administration's drive to get a new farm program through Congress, Secretary of Agriculture Benson told the Senate Agriculture Committee that Eisenhower had authorized him to say the administration would propose use of surpluses to "strengthen" the economies of friendly countries.

Benson also disclosed that latest tabulations showed his department has a record 5½ billion dollars invested in surpluses under price support programs.

The billion in surpluses would be disbursed in foreign aid programs during the next three years. Supplies for the program would be taken from 2½ billion dollars of surpluses which Eisenhower last week proposed be sealed off from commercial markets for such uses as the school lunch program, disaster relief aid to friendly people and emergency stockpiling. Monday's statement had the effect of further clarifying presidential plans for use of sealed off surpluses. Benson said full details would be laid before Congress later.

Taxpayers May Rebel
The GOP farm chief teed off on the present farm program which features mandatory 90 per cent parity price supports for major crops. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices, declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they pay.

Benson said the present program, if continued, would cost so much that taxpayers would rebel in time and possibly end all farm aid programs. Flexible supports between 75 and 90 per cent of parity, he said, would prevent future surpluses by lowering price incentives to produce in times of surpluses and by raising them in times of scarcity.

In 90 minutes of intense and sometimes hostile questioning, the secretary was challenged by three Republican and an equal number of Democrats, but was supported by two Republicans and one Democrat. Other members of the committee will be given a chance to quiz the secretary Tuesday.

Plenty of Criticism
Republican Sens. Young of North Dakota, Mundt of South Dakota and Thye of Minnesota, and Democratic Sens. Ellender of Louisiana, Johnston of South Carolina and Hoyer of North Carolina told Benson they did not believe flexible supports would work. They said lower price supports would tend to drive farmers to produce more rather than less in order to maintain a level of income.

The Democratic critics contended there was only one way to keep farmers prosperous and prevent new surpluses—and that was by adding rigid production controls to present high supports.

But Sens. Anderson (D-NM), former secretary of agriculture, Committee Chairman Aiken (R-Vt) and Hickenlooper (R-Ia) told Benson they agreed with the President's program.

Anderson said the present program had failed to provide stability of farm prices. He said over-production has forced

News Around The Globe

Army To Cancel Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army will cancel contracts worth one-half billion dollars by June 30, a high Pentagon official disclosed Monday.

Harold L. Pearson, deputy undersecretary of the Army, told reporters at a Pentagon briefing that the "nation's biggest buyer has been going out of the buying market" for six months in an effort to achieve both economy and efficiency in supply and money matters.

Pearson said that outstanding Army orders would drop to five billion dollars by June 30 or eight billion less than the total on the books on Jan. 1, 1953.

"Some Army offices are busier today cancelling orders than in placing new ones," Pearson said in stressing current Army policy of "living off its pantry shelf on the biggest scale you ever thought of."

Divorce 'Solution'

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Matinee idol Vittorio Gassman said Monday "divorce is the only possible solution" to his stormy marriage with film star Shelley Winters. But in Rome, Miss Winters said there would be no divorce until Gassman agrees to support their 11-month-old child.

Miss Winters filed suit in Santa Monica, Calif., Monday for legal separation. In announcing Saturday she would do so, she said she would divorce Gassman, himself a Hollywood star, if he hands over $95,000 and promises to marry the girl with whom he presently is on tour in "Hamlet."

Tax Relief OK'd

WASHINGTON (INS)—The House Ways and Means Committee approved Monday a 10-million-dollar annual tax relief for holders of annuities and voted to compel winners on radio and TV "giveaway" programs to pay taxes on their prizes.

The two actions were taken as the House group continued the task of overhauling the entire U. S. revenue code. An omnibus bill containing a series of committee changes is expected to go to the House later this session.

Prices of supported crops below guaranteed levels because many farmers were ineligible for price aid due to the fact that surpluses had outstripped storage facilities. Saying it was time the nation made a "tough, realistic appraisal of our overall farm programs," Benson raised the question: "At what point will the 140 million Americans who do not live on farms rise up—as they did in the potato fiasco of a few years ago—and demand not revision but outright elimination of all direct aid to agriculture?"

Benson said he did not have the answer to this question, but said it should be supplied by those proposing continuance of present rigid price supports.

Fugitive Seized

CHICAGO (INS)—Federal Bureau of Investigation agents Monday seized Franklyn James Wilson, 52, a fugitive on its "ten most wanted" list, in a South-side Chicago hotel.

The six-foot, 210-pound Wilson, wanted on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for armed robbery, offered no resistance and was unarmed when agents entered his room in the hotel.

'New Approach'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said Monday Senate GOP leaders have worked out a "new approach" he hopes may compromise the fight over a proposal by Sen. Bricker (R-O) to amend the Constitution to limit treaty-making powers.

Knowland, the Republican floor leader, told a news conference the proposed substitute has been submitted to Bricker and to some of President Eisenhower's cabinet members.

Raise Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) Monday introduced legislation to raise the pay of Congress members and most federal judges to $27,500 a year. McCarran offered that and other recommendations made last Friday by an 18-member civilian commission in the form of amendments to a salary bill he introduced last year. McCarran's original bill would give a $10,000 yearly pay boost to all senators, House members and federal judges except the Chief Justice, who would get a $14,500 increase.

Cabinet Of Fanfani Has Shaky Hold

... Vote Test Jan. 26

ROME (INS)—Italy's pivotal Monarchist Party Monday night refused to give Premier Amintore Fanfani's new "action" cabinet the parliamentary support it needs for political life.

Political observers predicted the cabinet, which had expected to push the fight against Communism and for ratification of the European Defense Community, would fall unless there was another favorable shift in party backing.

The Italian Chamber of Deputies is scheduled to vote on the Fanfani cabinet Jan. 26.

The somewhat surprising decision by the Monarchists came a few hours after Fanfani, 45-year-old former economics professor, appointed a cabinet from his own Christian Democratic party, plus a few Independents.

Uneasy End of Crisis

Fanfani's announcement of the composition of his projected government indicated the end of the two-week-old crisis that developed with the resignation of Premier Giuseppe Pella as the result of a dispute within the Christian Democratic party.

The cabinet chosen by Fanfani left-of-center Christian Democratic leader, was labeled "conservatively progressive." It had appeared the Monarchists were willing to go along with the cabinet on condition that it wage a more energetic fight against Communism and to break the EDC deadlock.

The Monarchists' evident change of mind upset the new cabinet's chances.

Corn Acreage Allotment Plan Discussed Here

County Agriculture Stabilization Committees from East Central Nebraska were briefed here Monday by the state ASC on the details of factoring 1954 corn acreage allotments should they be declared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The committees represented Butler, Clay, Colfax, Lancaster, Saline, Fillmore, York, Seward and Saunders Counties. The meeting was the third of six scheduled for Nebraska's corn areas. Similar meetings are scheduled at Beatrice, Tuesday; Central City, Thursday; and Kearney Friday.

County surveys of the three year average of corn acreage upon which the expected acreage allotments will be based were completed several weeks ago. O. D. Burton, state ASC committee man, said USDA representatives would arrive in Lincoln next week for a study of acreage averages and to help establish Nebraska's allotments. He describes the state's preliminary work well on schedule.

Advisory Council Urges Restoration Of 2 Mail Deliveries A Day

Summerfield Blasts Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—A civilian advisory council on postal rates and service Monday made public a strong plea for restoration of two mail deliveries a day in residential areas.

The plea, made at a personnel conference of postal group spokesmen conducted by the council, was included in a 367-page report on the Post Office Department just completed by the council.

The personnel conference concluded that the American people can get good mail service only if two deliveries a day are made to all homes. It also contended that the Post Office Department estimate of an 80 million dollar cost to bring back twice-daily deliveries was far too high.

The report was roundly denounced by Postmaster General Summerfield who said the "entire tenor and fabric" of the document "tries to justify further delay and inaction on postal rate increases for an indefinite period."

The Advisory Council did not include two deliveries a day in its 28 formal recommendations, but said the idea "should have careful study."

The report was released by the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee to which the council served as adviser. Sen. Carlson (R-Kan) said the committee, which he heads, was not endorsing the entire report but thought it worthy of close study by the Senate.

Not Spent

The Senate last year voted $100,000 for the study but Carlson said about $20,000 of this was not spent.

The council recommended that postal rate increase "be immediately considered by the Congress" but did not cite any specific boosts it favored.

It said the department must have more revenues "to offset, at least partially, any prospective salary increases for postal workers," but that rate increases should be kept at a minimum pending adoption of many efficiencies which it recommended.

However, the report strongly indicated that it felt letter mail (first class) should bear the brunt of any increases.

It included a study by the Price Waterhouse accounting firm stating that the cost of handling first-class mail has long been understated and that it falls far short of paying its way.

Big Deficit

The Post Office Department has contended that letter mail shows a profit but that newspapers and magazines (second class), advertising circulars (third class) and parcel post (fourth class) are responsible for the agency's big deficit.

The council pointed out that the rate on first-class, non-local mail has not been raised in 21 years.

On the other hand, it said, second-class rates are supposed to encourage widespread dissemination of information, but have been boosted 30 per cent since 1952; third-class rates have been hiked 50 per cent since 1948, although this class is widely used by small business; and parcel post rates have been raised 100 per cent since 1948, with adverse effects on all users and particularly farmers.

President Eisenhower has urged Congress to pass a 240-million-dollar postal rate increase bill which now is before a House committee.

The postal deficit is estimated at 440 million dollars for the current financial year ending July 1.

In PURSUIT of HAPPINESS

By J. GORDON ROBERTS

Entertainers usually require "props". An orchestral background is not limited by law to artists selling musical instruments. Nor should it be.

Radio and television have given added impetus to entertainment as a pleasant part of the American way of life, something to be expected in the sale of merchandise whenever it may reasonably be offered.

The tradition, however, is older than either television or radio. The advertiser pays for fiction in a magazine, and news in a newspaper.

Perhaps the advertiser enjoys fiction and news as much as his "guests". Because of recent decisions, however, the taxpayer should clearly deny any such enjoyment. One tax case involving a club membership was settled in favor of the taxpayer through "proof" that he did not enjoy golf. And I had thought that one golfer could entertain another golfer better than could someone who didn't enjoy the game. Neurotic, ain't it?

In any event, food and drink provide the "props", the background for the small businessman. And even though he may be able to prove that heavy food disagrees with him — and is, therefore, deductible — he may be forced to hire someone to do some of his entertaining for him. Somebody with a cast-iron stomach. Then he's stuck. Top-flight entertainers are the most highly paid people in the world. Demanding that a "mere" employee pay for his own meals while his employer chooses his companions and directs his time is simply asking that the small businessman leave the entertainment entirely to his large competitor—the company that pays its comedian more than its president.

According to news reports, all "fringe" benefits are to be eliminated, even I understand, tax-free coffee and rolls for the waitress, believe it or not.

Certainly mileage or automobiles for salesmen, executives, union officials, and the like must be eliminated as "privileges". What about the truck-driver and his truck? The truck-driver needs his truck just as the salesman needs a passenger car.

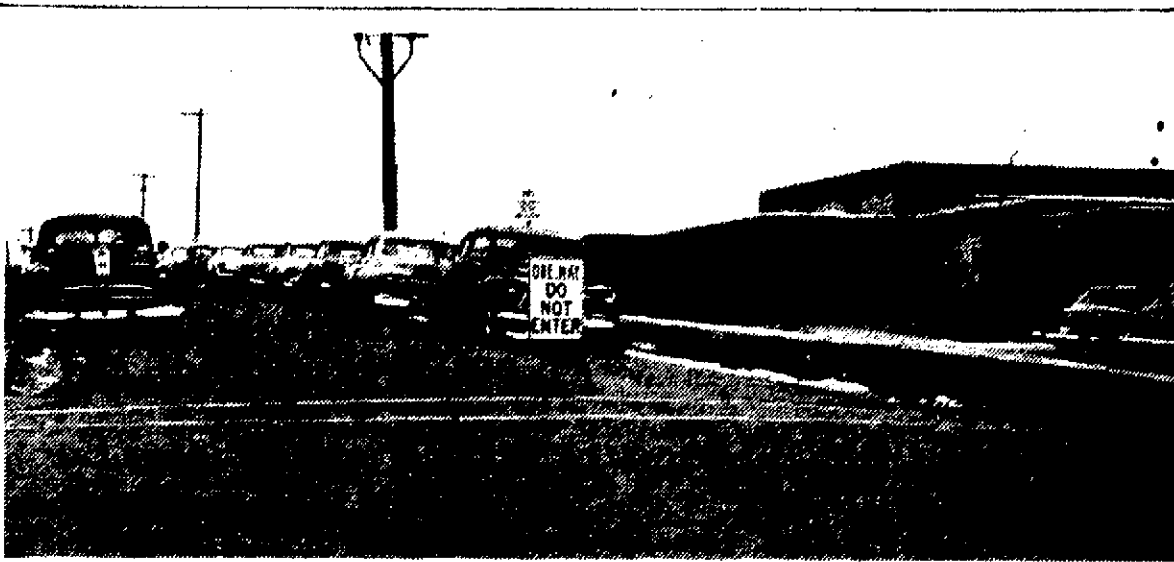

And what about the multimotored planes permitted executives of large corporations? Who is to pay for them?

This column runs Monday through Friday.

Strictly One Way But For Good Reason

Lincoln Police have instituted one-way street systems at two of Lincoln's elementary schools, Holmes and Randolph, giving parents a chance to pick up the children without the usual traffic snarls. Shown above is the west side of Holmes school, sitting on 52nd St. where the one-way rule is in effect. Capt. C. C. Hurd, traffic division, has asked public co-operation in the new system which is in effect from 3 to 3:30 p.m. every school day. At Holmes the one-way streets, marked by signs, are on 52nd from Everett south to

Summer, and from 52nd to 53rd on Summer heading east. At Randolph the one-way street is from 38th to 37th on D St. Purpose of the streets is to permit parents picking up their children an opportunity to avoid traffic tie-ups. Police say the system works. (Star Photo.)

When The Chips Are Down

It was a rather impressive experience which members of the House Agriculture Committee encountered in a swing last week through the southwest section of the United States.

Back in Washington, committee members expressed their surprise over the unanimity of opposition to President Eisenhower's proposed farm policy. At the hearings only one out of an approximate 150 witnesses had kind words for the administration's proposed farm program, the chief departure from the existing order being substitution of a limited plan for flexible price supports.

The lone witness was a lonely cattleman.

Perhaps the basis for congressional surprise is a seeming unwillingness on the part of congressmen to believe their own eyes or ears. Whenever the wheat grower, the cotton or tobacco raiser has voted upon controls, the results of that vote have been darn nearly unanimous. The present program has been approved by margins of 80 per cent of the total vote cast or higher.

The administration has made its position clear. It does not like the price support program based upon 90 per cent of parity. Secretary of Agriculture Benson, virtually from the day that he got his shoes under his desk, has made it clear that he is against a support program on the basis of 90 per cent of parity. The President has taken his position alongside Benson. Congress may refuse to accept Mr. Eisenhower's recommendation, but the fact remains that whatever action Congress takes will still find in charge of the program a man whose sympathies do not go along with it.

Enchanted '100,000 Mark'

Yesterday on this page Bill Dobler called attention to a report from Paul Wyatt, the city's planning engineer, indicating that on the basis of preliminary studies the Nebraska capital now has a population of an approximate 110,000—a gain since the official census of 1950 of some 17,000 men, women and children.

It would make a lot of men, who during their lifetimes contributed a great deal to Lincoln, very happy to know that this community has turned the corner.

Growth is one of the rules of life. They were always planning. They dreamed of the day when Lincoln had a hundred thousand people.

In a lot of thinking in this country the absence of even a few hundred people, leaving a city that much short of the 100,000 mark, makes an amazing lot of difference. It is the difference between a metropolitan area and just short of that descriptive term. In population terms Lincoln has come a long way since 1940. It has witnessed more substantial growth than in any other similar length of time in its history.

Mr. Dobler is ever so right in pointing to the added responsibilities which inevitably a growing population imposes. Growth means more of everything in the form of the essential services which city government is expected to furnish. If in three short years Lincoln has added more than 10,000 people to its population, the first step in a healthy situation is to call some attention to it and to explain the meaning of it. The failure of municipal government to no small extent can be explained by the fact that it is so much easier to ignore that slow, steady, continuous growth which goes on year after year in the drift from rural areas to urban centers.

Choice Of Junge

Emmett Junge's willingness to step into the shoes of Ray Osborn as one of the three city directors of Lincoln's city government is a break for this community.

When Mr. Osborn decided to retire in order to enter business again, it was recognized he would be a difficult man to replace. Emmett

Junge fills the bill. He is relatively young and energetic, yet sufficiently mature in judgment. He knows how to get along with people with a minimum of irritation. It is no easy job to direct the activities of the fire and police departments, along with the other activities falling upon the shoulders of the director of public welfare and safety. But Mr. Junge will succeed admirably, we are sure.

In addition, he takes on parks and recreation, which are to be transferred from Public Works Director Dave Erickson. Mr. Erickson has more than he can do now, particularly with the water plant expansion program on his hands. While Mr. Junge has never held public office, the job is not entirely new to him. He has been active in civic developments for a good many years.

Of Men And Things

There must be some little things quite all right in this world. If the warning by business research experts at the University of Nebraska, headed by Dr. Edgar Z. Palmer, has a sound foundation, then America's economy is not one of those little things which are right. Dr. Palmer and his associates say "the time is ripe for a serious depression." On the other hand, fortunately, they add the condition that it does not appear to them that a depression is inevitable provided certain things happen.

First, Dr. Palmer said, to avoid a depression, business leaders of the large business corporations and of the federal government must recognize the danger and not be satisfied with an easy optimism. We are inclined to think Dr. Palmer has put his finger upon what does constitute a very disturbing development. A year ago tomorrow, President Eisenhower was inaugurated. His inauguration was accompanied by the "easy optimism" to which a finger is pointed. Dr. Palmer is an economist, and does not concern himself with politics. He bases his conclusion upon economic developments and not upon the political trend. Now, beyond the Korean truce, which deserves to stand as an outstanding achievement, and more recently the President's proposal for an international pool for peacetime development of atomic energy, the record is pretty bare. Congress approved the Tidelands legislation which it may come to regret some years hence. The cut in personnel and the reduction in spending are heralded with some measure of pride by the administration, but have not produced a balanced budget. Thus far the only thing that has happened in the field of taxes is the expiration of levies scheduled to end at a certain time.

At all times one question of vital importance to American economy has received little airing. How rapidly can a prosperous nation go from a high peak of business volume, admittedly a peak induced by inflation, to something less than that volume, and once started on the downward spiral, where is it to stop? That is the calculated risk which people around Eisenhower think can be controlled.

The administration has put a great deal of emphasis upon surpluses, its thinking in this connection not going beyond agriculture. Yet the manufacturers of farm machinery, faced with a decline in orders, and apparently with warehouses full of equipment, were forced to suspend operations briefly and to idle thousands of men. It is not important whether agricultural surpluses accumulate before those in the industrial fields, or vice versa. When the point is reached that the cry is for reduced production, it means idleness. One of the outstanding factors of recent years has been the high volume of employment—and employment at a high level of wages. When it was said some years ago that 60 million Americans must have jobs, there was a lot of chuckling and the chuckling was not limited to the little people. It echoed through industry and business in the talk of men occupying positions of responsibility. Yet that goal of 60 million workers was reached, and surpassed.

There is no substitute for a job in any sound economy. Our headache in this country is to guard against unemployment. The more we reduce the number of workers in government, then the more it becomes necessary for private industry to pick up the slack. If there is the courage, the foresight, the determination to maintain employment at a very high level, the likelihood of a depression automatically retreats.

Mars To Be Frisked By Air Force For Saucers

WASHINGTON—It isn't being advertised, but the Air Force will send high-flying observation planes and guided missiles into the upper atmosphere for a closer look at the planet Mars in June when Mars will approach nearer to the earth than at any time in the last 13 years.

Flying-saucer enthusiasts claim that the elusive saucers have always been spotted in greater numbers when Mars is close to the earth. The Air Force is skeptical about this, since no evidence has been uncovered linking flying saucers with other planets.

However, astronomers have noticed straight lines across the face of Mars, leading down from the polar caps. These could be canals, dug by intelligent beings to carry irrigation water from the melting glaciers to warmer regions, they admit.

In any case, the Air Force will cooperate with scientists by sending up observation planes and guided missiles for a closer look, while Mars is near the earth this spring. The missiles will be equipped with special instruments trained on Mars and will be shot into the stratosphere. In addition, a scientific expedition will journey to Bloemfontein, South Africa, which will be the closest point on earth from which to observe our neighbor planet.

Meanwhile, the Air Force has compiled a special report, as yet unpublished, summing up its findings on flying saucers. This acknowledges that 20 per cent of the flying-saucer reports "cannot be definitely associated with familiar things."

INSUFFICIENT DATA

"This difficulty in evaluating these unexplained reports," according to the Air Force document, "is based largely upon the insufficiency of accurate basic data such as size, shape, composition, and flight characteristics of the objects."

"The majority of reports of aerial phenomena have come from civilians," continued the document. "About 8 per cent come from civil airlines pilots, while approximately 25 per cent are reported by military personnel. Reports have been received also from highly qualified scientists."

The Air Force adds that it "has received many reports of unusual images of radarscopes," but points out that "it is fairly well established that some of these images are ground objects reflected from a layer of warm air above the earth."

"No orders have been issued by the Air Defense Command to its fighter units to fire on unidentified aerial phenomena," states the flying-saucer report. "The Air Defense Command is charged with air defense of the United States, and its mission is to attack anything airborne which is known or appears to be hostile. This should not be interpreted to mean that our pilots will fire haphazardly on anything that flies."

In an attempt to photograph a flying saucer, the Air Force will set up diffraction-grating cameras at various air towers and also use "a continuously operating Schmidt telescope equipped with a camera. This telescope has a wide aperture lens and is capable of covering a cone of 150 degrees or nearly the whole sky from horizon to horizon. This equipment will make it possible to get on a series of photographic plates a complete record of what happens in the sky at night."

IKE VS. FEPC

Negro leaders came away from a White House meeting the other day disappointed in the President's stand on fair employment, but convinced of one thing—there is no intolerance in Ike.

"Segregation and discrimination because of race or color has no place in a free country," Ike declared firmly. "I will do all in my power as President to get rid of it."

However, the President refused to go along with his visitors, representing the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, on dealing with unfair employment practices. They contended that the only way to combat race discrimination in employment is to have a law on the books, such as the fair employment practices act, protecting workers against intolerant employers.

"That's where we disagree, though I will go along with you that there are biased employers in this country," replied Eisenhower. "While I don't approve of these people, neither do I approve of using any sort of compulsion on anyone regarding employment in a place of business. I also have doubts about the jurisdiction of a federal FEPC commission in the various states under our constitution."

The President demonstrated that he is making a real effort to keep abreast of racial intolerance in government projects. When N.A.A.C.P. Director Walter White told him that slum clearance in some areas meant that Negroes were moved out but couldn't move back after new housing was provided, Ike seemed to know about it.

"I know there has been some discrimination in that matter, and I have talked it over with housing officials," he agreed earnestly. "I think anything like that is intolerable. I can assure you that something will be done about it. Under no circumstances should federal assistance be given to anything to promote segregation."

However, the President seemed surprised to learn that segregation was still practiced in interstate travel despite a supreme court decision outlawing it. Informed that a colored Air Force lieutenant recently was jailed in Florida because he wouldn't give up his seat on an Alabama-bound bus, Ike became incensed.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Plums, Ike's Program Souring To Old Guard

WASHINGTON — Beneath the polite platitudes about party harmony, a rumble of Republican discontent can be heard without benefit of any hearing device. Old-line Republicans simply do not like the Eisenhower program.

But there is another source of unhappiness. That is patronage. Republican national committee men out in the country want to know why more jobs have not been available to hand out to the faithful who have waited so long for the dawning of a new Republican day.

Their discontent is reflected in the snappish behavior of members of Congress and party leaders in Washington who must deal with this discontent in an election year. Most department heads are under continuing pressure to "turn the rascals out" — or more of the rascals at any rate — to make way for good Republicans.

The pressure has been particularly severe on the Department of State. Old Guard sentiment grows that Secretary Dulles has not gone nearly far enough in reversing the foreign policy of past years. And why hasn't he, they want to know. They're ready with the answer — because all those New Dealers, or worse, are still down there making policy. An interview with one of these pillars of the old order goes approximately as follows:

Question: You are really convinced, senator, that these people down below the assistant secretaries are making policy? Or at any rate, fixing it so that new policies cannot be implemented?

Answer: Why, I certainly am! Do you know how many people in policy-making jobs have been removed in the State Department? Twenty-seven! Just 27 out of 5,000.

Question: Aren't most of these people in the career service specialists in their jobs? Could you replace them with anybody?

Answer: We can find plenty of good people who have a Republican point of view. Somebody said to me the other day that firing maybe as many as 500 over there at state would be just like a new chief of staff of the army coming in and firing all the officers of the rank of colonel and above. That's the bunk! There isn't any comparison there at all.

Question: But how does this "influence work" These career people are a pretty cautious lot.

Answer: I'll tell you how it works. Take Walter Robertson. He was made assistant secretary for the Far East, and he's a good man trying to do a good job. But they haven't cleaned out under him. So who does the research that he has to base his decision on? Why, those carry-overs from the Truman-Acheson time.

That is a sample of the hot breath down the neck of the State Department. Out of his long experience in foreign policy, Secretary Dulles is well aware of the importance of continuity. He knows that a great and responsible nation cannot abruptly pull a switch and reverse the policies of years in response to a political change. He knows that technical skills are required in almost the same degree as in the armed services and that a specialist cannot be replaced by a deserving party worker or contributor without damaging the machine on which much depends.

Some interesting questions are raised by this pressure for patronage. One may ask how far it is to go. Before the career foreign service was established most of the diplomatic posts, including consulates, were political plums. And too often America was represented by indifferent party hacks.

In a recent magazine article a former employee of the Economic Co-operation Administration tells how "I rode Uncle Sam's gravy train." The author apparently feels that the salary, the perquisites and privileges he received while working for ECA in Denmark were unnecessary and undeserved. The implication is that all Americans working for the government abroad are having a high old time at the taxpayers' expense. And presumably the whole business had best be abolished and the sooner the better.

Unquestionably many Americans set out merely to ride the gravy train in some pleasant foreign capital. But there are also thousands of hard-working civil servants who work long hours under difficult circumstances. In a letter of protest to the magazine editor six former officials of ECA, all now in much better paying private jobs, say that they had never worked so hard as they did for ECA in Europe.

One may ask whether the patronage bunters are looking for seats on the gravy train or whether they have a genuine interest in finding qualified men and women for responsible positions. The career civil servant has taken the career beating of late. A little more of it and he may become a vanishing species. (Copyright, 1954, by E.P. Dutton, Inc.)

Legislative Anatomy

Omaha, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Mr. McReynolds again writes that he is for what "was" 20-odd years ago. But this time he added a challenge—that he'd like to see something better offered. Looking ahead, he would discover that the free world is teeming with living, usable legislative forms and it more than meets his challenge.

Ontario, for instance, has an exemplary unicameral, and our good U.S.A. was non-partisan with President Washington. California presents something new under its sun—the amazing combination of partisan plus dual-partisan representation. Belgium goes all-out for just, accurate proportional representation. Switzerland displays sterling, enduring quality, devotion to unity. North Carolina gets on nicely without the veto. Australia allows unpeopled areas a welcome voice and fractional vote. And the election-at-large provision is used within a number of states and is the constitutional way we choose U.S. senators.

And, as it is in a humorous vein, the world offers New Hampshire's 443-man legislature; France's over-partisan and, hence, oft-tumbling two-chambered get-up; New Jersey's gangster-manipulated bicameral; South Carolina's "no-secret" ballot; and New York's and California's unbelievable discrimination against hard-working city folks.

Mr. McReynolds may now at leisure choose the best of these phases, combine them thoughtfully, and then hoist a brighter banner to the Nebraska breeze. It would be a refreshing thing for all of us to do. Some have chosen a unicameral slightly enlarged, with an assured non-partisan majority, but with a bipartisan section chosen at large, adding vitamin C with a shot of double salary, for which they expect double work.

WALTER GABRIEL

Happier Future

Curtis, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The Big Four plan now to hold a meeting in Berlin soon. What do we know about it? We know first that the Russians will make no concessions favorable to the West. We know that Russia will not relax its hold upon any territory where it now has a foothold, but will seek to gain more territory. We know that Germany can never be united. These last are told in the Bible. "Even unto the end shall be war; de s o l a t i o n s are determined." Also, "They shall take away his dominion, to consume and to destroy it unto the end." The conference, however, seems necessary as to convince the world of our good faith. An agreement may be reached not to drop atomic bombs on the other's cities because of the fear of retaliation.

Perhaps all Asia will go Communist and other large portions of the earth, but the Christian world may still view the future serenely. We who have chosen Jesus have the assurance of God's protection and final triumph. This has been proven in every crisis of past ages. The Huns, the Arabs, the Tartars, the Turks and others have sought to destroy Christianity, but each in turn was driven back in defeat. Finally the territory of Communism will experience a more terrible condition than the present, because anarchy appears to be on the way. But we who serve the Ruler of heaven and earth will enter into a happier future.

C. R. HERRICK

Nebraska Football

Verona, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: After reading "The Firing Line" in The Star on Jan. 14, I was somewhat taken aback. If we want to go back and dream of the '35 squad why not go back to the '36 '40 squads when Nebraska didn't spot their opponents two TD's before the game hardly started, and when they really tackled? Too bad we don't have a Dana Bidle or a Biff Jones around to coach. What a team Nebraska would have had this past year!

Why in the past few years there's been so many players checking in and players and assistant coaches alike transferring? There is more behind this than meets the eye or ear. During the spring drills of '53 the papers and radio sportscasters were commenting on the wonderful teams of '53. This year Nebraska was built. Look out! Here comes Nebraska! What a team!

What happened? Lots of fans and taxpayers would like to know. When did it become a crime for the Athletic Board to consult the players in regard to the coach after such reports are made, as some that have been aired and put to press? It seems that they are a bit late in investigating the situation.

According to the press and radio, there is no comment on any of these meetings except that Glassford has been asked to resign as head coach—nothing about the players' views. There are two sides to every story. Why did Patsy Clark quit? Why did Glassford have so many excuses during the season? After seeing several Nebraska games in the past few years, it is quite evident there needs to be a change. One can see better football and better coaching by watching high school games.

GILBERT NELSON

Price Of Liberty

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The article "Class War in the Family" by Columnist H. J. Phillips that appeared in the Sunday paper on January 17, is asinine and, no doubt, intended as a satirical propaganda against organized labor. It fits into the pattern that is taking shape today, which indicates that anti-union employers and their hirelings are expecting to smash labor organizations now, as they did after the first world war.

Labor views strikes as a weapon to be used only as a last resort, but when the last resort has been reached, unions must be free to use the strike as fully and powerfully as possible. Working men do not willingly give up their jobs and pay to go on strike, yet sometimes they know it is the only way to talk to an employer; decrease in production speaks louder than the union.

As long as there are employers and fawning propagandists who insidiously smear democracy in industrial-labor relations, labor will have to have the right to strike and withhold its labor and co-operation. Otherwise workers will become the slaves to a fascistic order of industrialists who will not only control the economy of the country but the politics as well. This danger is as real and present as that of Communism. Organized labor, through its unions, has been able to maintain the balance between these two extreme ideologies, so that the democratic system is still supreme in the minds and hearts of most of our citizenry.

Workers, and especially organized workers, want to co-operate with management of industry to make their business a success. They know that only through efficient application of the workers' productive efforts can a business meet the aspirations of its employees for better wages, working conditions, security from loss of employment due to sickness and old age. But co-operation is a matter of team work, not just a one-way proposition for the workers and their union to accede to. When the employer, in this fundamental fact, they are heading down the road to war; strikes are wars and, as Sherman said, "War is hell"—for both the victor and vanquished. But such is the price of liberty for labor.

What Is Important?

Blair, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: It would seem improper, at this time, for the Sports Editors of the Omaha and Lincoln papers to incite further passion, prejudice and turmoil. Rather, this is a time for serious analysis without anger. As a matter of fact, it is hardly uncommon for written contracts between football coaches and schools to be broken. In many cases, they are broken by the coaches themselves.

It would seem that the "vanity" of certain sports writers has been injured. This is unfortunate. It can be mended for time heals wounds, they say. What is more important, is how to resolve the football coaching situation at the University of Nebraska with a minimum of further chaos and name calling.

ROBERT RECKLING

Refund Gas Money

Crete, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Why is refund gas money expensive to the state of Nebraska? It's money we give and it's not burning up the highways. The only expense I can see is in the cost of administration. A good way to do away with them would be by coloring the gas a different color than that used for tax purposes. That would be an easy way to check upon would-be violators and certainly would make farmers happy.

It was a rather impressive experience which members of the House Agriculture Committee encountered in a swing last week through the southwest section of the United States.

Back in Washington, committee members expressed their surprise over the unanimity of opposition to President Eisenhower's proposed farm policy. At the hearings only one out of an approximate 150 witnesses had kind words for the administration's proposed farm program, the chief departure from the existing order being substitution of a limited plan for flexible price supports.

The lone witness was a lonely cattleman. Perhaps the basis for congressional surprise is a seeming unwillingness on the part of congressmen to believe their own eyes or ears. Whenever the wheat grower, the cotton or tobacco raiser has voted upon controls, the results of that vote have been darn nearly unanimous. The present program has been approved by margins of 80 per cent of the total vote cast or higher.

The administration has made its position clear. It does not like the price support program based upon 90 per cent of parity. Secretary of Agriculture Benson, virtually from the day that he got his shoes under his desk, has made it clear that he is against a support program on the basis of 90 per cent of parity. The President has taken his position along-side Benson. Congress may refuse to accept Mr. Eisenhower's recommendation, but the fact remains that whatever action Congress takes will still find in charge of the program a man whose sympathies do not go along with it.

Enchanted '100,000 Mark'

Yesterday on this page Bill Dobler called attention to a report from Paul Wyatt, the city's planning engineer, indicating that on the basis of preliminary studies the Nebraska capital now has a population of an approximate 110,000—a gain since the official census of 1950 of some 17,000 men, women and children.

It would make a lot of men, who during their lifetimes contributed a great deal to Lincoln, very happy to know that this community has turned the corner.

Growth is one of the rules of life. They were always planning. They dreamed of the day when Lincoln had a hundred thousand people.

In a lot of thinking in this country the absence of even a few hundred people, leaving a city that much short of the 100,000 mark, makes an amazing lot of difference. It is the difference between a metropolitan area and just short of that descriptive term. In population terms Lincoln has come a long way since 1940. It has witnessed more substantial growth than in any other similar length of time in its history.

Mr. Dobler is ever so right in pointing to the added responsibilities which inevitably a growing population imposes. Growth means more of everything in the form of the essential services which city government is expected to furnish. If in three short years Lincoln has added more than 10,000 people to its population, the first step in a healthy situation is to call some attention to it and to explain the meaning of it. The failure of municipal government to no small extent can be explained by the fact that it is so much easier to ignore that slow, steady, continuous growth which goes on year after year in the drift from rural areas to urban centers.

Choice Of Junge

Emmett Junge's willingness to step into the shoes of Ray Osborn as one of the three city directors of Lincoln's city government is a break for this community.

When Mr. Osborn decided to retire in order to enter business again, it was recognized he would be a difficult man to replace. Emmett

Junge fills the bill. He is relatively young and energetic, yet sufficiently mature in judgment. He knows how to get along with people with a minimum of irritation. It is no easy job to direct the activities of the fire and police departments, along with the other activities falling upon the shoulders of the director of public welfare and safety. But Mr. Junge will succeed admirably, we are sure.

In addition, he takes on parks and recreation, which are to be transferred from Public Works Director Dave Erickson. Mr. Erickson has more than he can do now, particularly with the water plant expansion program on his hands. While Mr. Junge has never held public office, the job is not entirely new to him. He has been active in civic developments for a good many years.

The Hidden Loss

A group of Nebraska public school representatives, meeting here at week-end to explore the fields of educational improvement, touched upon an interesting yet seldom considered factor. It had to do with the hidden loss attending a system that is constantly preparing educators but not keeping them.

It is probably a fact that there are more trained teachers in Nebraska who are not teaching than there are in the classrooms. And it also seems evident that the schools are spending time and money developing young instructors to a point of mature seasoning only to lose the years of good return by their departure from the field.

When one looks at it, no business can expect minimum cost and maximum results when such a factor is in play. Private business prospers by developing and holding seasoned, key people. It makes a place for top men and it derives good returns for the incentives it offers. It cannot be gainsaid that many school men leave the field because their advancement is limited by a system that makes too little provision for their growth and advancement. Possibly some of the high cost of education is in high turnover and money lost on training which is never redeemed by use. It is at least a subject that calls for more attention than it has been receiving.

The Inscrutable Navy

The U.S. Navy just launched its first atomic powered submarine marking a new step in the nation's quest for security. Curiously enough the Navy took the occasion to issue a second order, one calling for its officers to re-supply themselves with swords.

Is there something portentous in this? While the world is watching the latest engine of war as it slides down the ways into the water, the men who go down to the sea in ships are strapping the world's old weapon back on their belts. Speak out Navy. What foreboding is in your mind? Is it that you expect these men, sailing away in their bright new bark, to hurl the deadly atom that will liquidate civilization and spin history back to the beginning when men shall have to start out again with a rock in one hand and a sword in the other? Or did the supply department by mistake start the week's work referring to an outdated Blue-jacket's Manual?

At all times one question of vital importance to American economy has received little airing. How rapidly can a prosperous nation go from a high peak of business volume, admittedly a peak induced by inflation, to something less than that volume, and once started on the downward spiral, where is it to stop? That is the calculated risk which people around Eisenhower think can be controlled.

The administration has put a great deal of emphasis upon surpluses, its thinking in this connection not going beyond agriculture. Yet the manufacturers of farm machinery, faced with a decline in orders, and apparently with warehouses full of equipment, were forced to suspend operations briefly and to idle thousands of men. It is not important whether agricultural surpluses accumulate before those in the industrial fields, or vice versa. When the point is reached that the cry is for reduced production, it means idleness. One of the outstanding factors of recent years has been the high volume of employment—and employment at a high level of wages. When it was said some years ago that 60 million Americans must have jobs, there was a lot of chuckling and the chuckling was not limited to the little people. It echoed through industry and business in the talk of men occupying positions of responsibility. Yet that goal of 60 million workers was reached, and surpassed.

There is no substitute for a job in any sound economy. Our headache in this country is to guard against unemployment. The more we reduce the number of workers in government, then the more it becomes necessary for private industry to pick up the slack. If there is the courage, the foresight, the determination to maintain employment at a very high level, the likelihood of a depression automatically retreats.

Mars To Be Frisked By Air Force For Saucers

WASHINGTON—It isn't being advertised, but the Air Force will send high-flying observation planes and guided missiles into the upper atmosphere for a closer look at the planet Mars in June when Mars will approach nearer to the earth than at any time in the last 13 years.

Flying-saucer enthusiasts claim that the elusive saucers have always been spotted in greater numbers when Mars is close to the earth. The Air Force is skeptical about this, since no evidence has been uncovered linking flying saucers with other planets.

However, astronomers have noticed straight lines across the face of Mars, leading down from the polar caps. These could be canals, dug by intelligent beings to carry irrigation water from the melting glaciers to warmer regions, they admit.

In any case, the Air Force will cooperate with scientists by sending up observation planes and guided missiles for a closer look, while Mars is near the earth this spring. The missiles will be equipped with special instruments trained on Mars, and will be shot into the stratosphere. In addition, a scientific expedition will journey to Bloemfontein, South Africa, which will be the closest point on earth from which to observe our neighbor planet.

Meanwhile, the Air Force has compiled a special report, as yet unpublished, summarizing its findings on flying saucers. This acknowledges that 20 per cent of the flying-saucer reports "cannot be definitely associated with familiar things."

INSUFFICIENT DATA

"This difficulty in evaluating these unexplained reports," according to the Air Force document, "is based largely upon the insufficiency of accurate basic data such as size, shape, composition, and flight characteristics of the objects."

"The majority of reports of aerial phenomena have come from civilians," continued the document. "About 8 per cent come from military personnel, while approximately 25 per cent are reported by military personnel. Reports have been received also from highly qualified scientists."

The Air Force adds that it "has received many reports of unusual images of radarscopes," but points out that "it is fairly well established that some of these images are ground objects reflected from a layer of warm air above the earth."

"No orders have been issued by the Air Defense Command to its fighter units to fire on unidentified aerial phenomena," states the flying-saucer report. "The Air Defense Command is charged with air defense of the United States, and its mission is to attack anything airborne which is known or appears to be hostile. This should not be interpreted to mean that our pilots will fire hazily on anything that flies."

In an attempt to photograph a flying saucer, the Air Force will set up diffraction-grating cameras at various air towers and also use a continuously operating Schmidt telescope equipped with a camera. This telescope has a wide aperture lens and is capable of covering a cone of 150 degrees or nearly the whole sky from horizon to horizon. This equipment will make it possible to get on a series of photographic plates a complete record of what happens in the sky at night."

IKE VS. FEPC

Negro leaders came away from a White House meeting the other day disappointed in the President's stand on fair employment, but convinced of one thing—there is no intolerance in Ike.

"Segregation and discrimination because of race or color has no place in a free country," Ike declared firmly. "I will do all in my power as President to get rid of it."

However, the President refused to go along with his visitors, representing the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, on dealing with unfair employment practices. They contended that the only way to combat race discrimination in employment was to have a law on the books, such as the fair employment practices act, protecting workers against intolerant employers.

"That's where we disagree, though I will go along with you that there are biased employers in this country," replied Eisenhower. "While I don't approve of these people, neither do I approve of using any sort of compulsion on anyone regarding employment in a place of business. I also have doubts about the jurisdiction of a federal FEPC commission in the various states under our constitution."

The President demonstrated that he is making a real effort to keep abreast of racial intolerance in government projects. When N.A.A.C.P. Director Walter White told him that slum clearance in some areas meant that Negroes were moved out but couldn't move back after new housing was provided, Ike seemed to know about it.

"I know there has been some discrimination in that matter, and I have talked it over with housing officials," he agreed earnestly. "I think anything like that is intolerable. I can assure you that something will be done about it. Under no circumstances should federal assistance be given to anything to promote segregation."

However, the President seemed surprised to learn that segregation was still practiced in interstate travel despite a supreme court decision outlawing it. Informed that a colored Air Force lieutenant recently was jailed in Florida because he wouldn't give up his seat on an Alabama-bound bus, Ike became incensed.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Plums, Ike's Program Souring To Old Guard

WASHINGTON — Beneath the polite platitudes about party harmony, a rumble of Republican discontent can be heard without benefit of any hearing device. Old-line Republicans simply do not like the Eisenhower program. But there is another source of unhappiness. That is patronage. Republican national committee-men out in the country want to know why more jobs have not been available to hand out to the faithful who have waited so long for the dawning of a new Republican day.

Their discontent is reflected in the snappish behavior of members of Congress and party leaders in Washington who must deal with this discontent in an election year. Most department heads are under continuing pressure to "turn the rascals out" — or more of the rascals at any rate — to make way for good Republicans.

The pressure has been particularly severe on the Department of State. Old Guard senators growl that Secretary Dulles has not gone nearly far enough in reversing the foreign policy of past years. And why hasn't he, they want to know. They're ready with the answer — because all those New Dealers, or worse, are still down there making policy. An interview with one of these pillars of the old order goes approximately as follows:

Question: You are really convinced, senator, that these people down below the assistant secretaries are making policy? Or at any rate, fixing it so that new policies cannot be implemented?
Answer: Why, I certainly am! Do you know how many people in policy-making jobs have been removed in the State Department? Twenty-seven! Just 27 out of 5,000.

Question: Aren't most of these people in the career service specialists in their jobs? Could you replace them with anybody?

Answer: We can find plenty of good people who have a Republican point of view. Somebody said to me the other day that firing maybe as many as 500 over there at state would be just like a new chief of staff of the army coming in and firing all the officers of the rank of colonel and above. That's the bunk! There isn't any comparison there at all.

Question: But how does this influence work? These career people are a pretty cautious lot.
Answer: I'll tell you how it works. Take Walter Robertson. He was made assistant secretary for the Far East, and he's a good man trying to do a good job. But they haven't cleaned out under him. So who does the research that he has to base his decision on? Why, those carry-overs from the Truman-Acheson time.

That is a sample of the hot breath down the neck of the State Department. Out of his long experience in foreign policy, Secretary Dulles is well aware of the importance of continuity. He knows that a great and responsible nation cannot abruptly pull a switch and reverse the policies of years in response to a political change. He knows that technical skills are required in almost the same degree as in the armed services and that a specialist cannot be replaced by a deserving party worker or contributor without damaging the machine on which much depends.

Some interesting questions are raised by this pressure for patronage. One may ask how far it is to go. Before the career foreign service was established some diplomatic posts, including consulates, were political plums. And too often America was represented by indifferent party hacks.

In a recent magazine article a former employee of the Economic Co-operation Administration tells how "I rode Uncle Sam's gravy train." The author apparently feels that the salary, the perquisites and privileges he received for working for ECA in Denmark were unnecessary and undeserved. The implication is that all Americans working for the government abroad are having a high old time at the taxpayer's expense. And presumably the whole business had best be abolished and the sooner the better.

Unquestionably many Americans set out merely to ride the gravy train in some pleasant foreign capital. But there are also thousands of hard-working civil servants who work long hours under difficult circumstances. In a letter of protest to the magazine editor six former officials of ECA, all now in much better paying private jobs, say that they had never worked so hard as they did for ECA in Europe.

One may ask whether the patronage hunters are looking for seats on the gravy train or whether they have a genuine interest in finding qualified men and women for responsible positions. The career civil servant has taken a terrible beating of late. A little more of it and he may become a vanishing species. (Copyright, 1954, by U.P. Syndicate, Inc.)

Legislative Anatomy

Omaha, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Mr. McReynolds writes that the is for "was" 20-odd years ago. But this time he added a challenge—that he'd like to see something better offered. Looking afield, he would discover that the free world is teeming with living, usable legislative forms and it more than meets his challenge.

Ontario, for instance, has an exemplary unicameral, and our good U.S.A. was no partisan with President Washington. California presents something new under its sun—the amazing combination of partisan plus dual-partisan representation. Belgium goes all-out for just, accurate proportional representation. Switzerland displays sterling, enduring quality, devotion to unity. North Carolina gets on nicely without the veto. Australia allows unpeopled areas a welcome voice and fractional vote. And the election-at-large provision is used within a number of states and is the constitutional way we choose U.S. senators.

And, as if in a humorous vein, the world offers New Hampshire's 443-man legislature; France's over-partisan, hence, oft-tumbling two-chambered get-up; New Jersey's gangster-manipulated bicameral; South Carolina's "no-secret" ballot; and New York's and California's unbelievable discrimination against hard-working city folks.

Mr. McReynolds may now at leisure choose the best of these phrases, combine them thoughtfully, and then hoist a brighter banner to the Nebraska breeze. It would be a refreshing thing for all of us to do. Some have chosen a unicameral slightly enlarged, with an assured non-partisan majority, but with a bipartisan section chosen at large, adding vitamin C with a shot of double salary, for which they expect double work.

WALTER GABRIEL

Happier Future

Curtis, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The Big Four plan now to hold a meeting in Berlin soon. What do we know about it? We know first that the Russians will make no concessions favorable to the West. We know that Russia will not relax its hold upon any territory where it now has a foothold, but will seek to gain more territory. We know that Germany can never be united. These last are told in the Bible. "Even unto the end shall be war; desolations are determined." Also, "They shall take away his dominion, to consume and to destroy it unto the end." The conference, however, seems necessary so as to convince the world of our good faith. An agreement may be reached not to drop atomic bombs on the other cities because of the fear of retaliation.

Perhaps all Asia will go Communist and other large portions of the earth, but the Christian world may still view the future serenely. We who have chosen Jesus have the assurance of God's protection and final triumph. This has been proven in every crisis of past ages. The Huns, the Arabs, the Tartars, the Turks and others have sought to destroy Christianity, but each in turn was driven back in defeat. Finally the territory of Communism will experience a more terrible condition than the present, because anarchy appears to be on the way. But we who serve the Ruler of heaven and earth will enter into a happier future.

C. R. HERRICK

Nebraska Football

Verona, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: After reading "The Firing Line" in The Star on Jan. 14, I was somewhat taken aback. If we want to go back and dream of the '50 squad, why not go back to the '36 or '40 squads when Nebraska didn't spot their opponents' TD's before the game hardly started, and when they really tackled? Too bad we don't have a Dana Bible or a Biff Jones around to coach. What a team Nebraska would have had this past year!

Why in the past few years there's been so many players checking in and players and assistant coaches alike transferring? There is more behind this than meets the eye or ear. During the spring drills of '53 the papers and radio sportscasters were commenting on the wonderful teams of '53. This year Nebraska was built. Look out! Here comes Nebraska! What a team!

What happened?

Lots of fans and taxpayers would like to know. When did it become a crime for the Athletic Board to consult the players in regard to the coach after such reports are made, as some have been aired and put to press? It seems that they are a bit late in investigating the situation.

According to the press and radio, there is no comment on any of these meetings except that Glassford has been asked to resign as head coach—nothing about the players' views. There are two sides to every story.

Why did Patsy Clark quit? Why did Glassford have so many excuses during the season? After seeing several Nebraska games in the past few years, it is quite evident there needs to be a change. One can see better football and better coaching by watching high school games.

GILBERT NELSON

Price Of Liberty

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The article, "Class War in the Family," by Columnist H. I. Phillips that appeared in the Star paper on January 17, is asinine and, no doubt, intended as a satirical propaganda against organized labor. It fits into the pattern that is taking shape so day, which indicates that anti-union employers and their hirelings are expecting to smash labor organizations now, as they did after the first world war.

Labor views strikers as a weapon to be used only as a last resort, but when the last resort has been reached, unions must be free to use the strike as fully and powerfully as possible. Working men do not willingly give up their jobs and pay to go on strike, yet sometimes they know it is the only way to talk to an employer; decrease in production speaks louder than the union.

As long as there are employers and fawning propagandists who insidiously smear democracy in industrial-labor relations, labor will have to have the right to strike and withhold its labor and co-operation. Otherwise workers will become the slaves to a fascistic order of industrialists who will not only control the economy of the country but the politics as well. This danger is as real and present as that of Communism. Organized labor, through its unions, has been able to maintain the balance between these two extreme ideologies, so that the democratic system is still supreme in the minds and hearts of most of our citizenry.

Workers, and especially organized workers, want to co-operate with management of industry to make their business a success. They know that only through efficient application of the workers' productive efforts can a business meet the aspirations of its employees for better wages, working conditions, security from loss of employment due to sickness and old age. But co-operation is a matter of team work, not just a one-way proposition for the workers and their unions to accede to. When the employer forgets this fundamental fact, they are heading down the road to war; strikes are wars and, as Sherman said, "War is hell"—for both the victor and vanquished. But such is the price of liberty for labor.

What Is Important?

Blair, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: It would seem improper, at this time, for the Sports Editors of the Omaha and Lincoln papers to incite further passion, prejudice and turmoil. Rather, this is a time for serious analysis without anger. As a matter of fact, it is hardly uncommon for written contracts between football coaches and schools to be broken. In many cases, they are broken by the coaches themselves.

It would seem that the "vanity" of certain sports writers has been injured. This is unfortunate. It can be mended for time heals wounds, they say. What is more important, is how to resolve the football coaching situation at the University of Nebraska with a minimum of further chaos and name calling.

Supreme Court Acts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Monday struck down New York and Ohio bans against two controversial movies, but withheld any general judgment on film censorship.

The justices had witnessed private showings of the disputed movies before reaching their unanimous decision.

Florence Shientag of New York, attorney for one of the film distributors, promptly hailed the decision as "an important blow at censorship."

"La Ronde"

Although there was no dissent, two of the justices made it clear they believed the court should say flatly that movie censorship violates constitutional guarantees of a free speech and a free press.

The High Court reversed the decisions of New York and Ohio State courts which had upheld the banning of the French film "La Ronde," starring Simone Simon, and "M," a crime movie.

New York censors called "La Ronde" immoral. Ohio censors said "M" was "harmful" to the public.

Commercial Pictures Corp., distributor of "La Ronde," and Superior Films, Inc., producers of "M," asked the Supreme Court to strike down all movie censorship as unconstitutional.

Douglas Stand

This the court refused to do, although upsetting the state bans on the two pictures.

Justice Douglas, speaking for himself and Justice Black, said he could not accept the argument of New York and Ohio that government may establish censorship over motion pictures.

"In this nation every writer, actor, or producer, no matter what medium of expression he may use, should be freed from the censor," Douglas said.

The main opinion, which was unsigned and consisted of three and one-half lines, merely announced the New York and Ohio court decisions were being reversed. It cited a 1952 decision by the Supreme Court that movies are entitled to the constitutional guarantees of free speech and press. But, the court said, this did not mean the movie industry is entitled to absolute freedom to show every sort of picture at all times and places.

Jailbreak Artist Encounters More Trouble With Law

ELY, Nev. (AP)—Fingerprint files of the FBI have identified a White Pine County jail inmate, who apparently will steal just about anything, as a jailbreak artist wanted by authorities in Nebraska and South Dakota.

The FBI identified him as Donald G. Braniff, 30, who broke out of jail in Valentine, Neb., and Pierre, S. D., after overpowering his guards.

Police said Braniff broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Staumbaugh and stole some $300 worth of items, ranging from a 22 caliber pistol to a quarter of a chocolate cake. The list also included five shoe bags, a foam rubber pillow, five lamb chops, several cobs of corn, six phonograph records and a string of frankfurters.

Braniff pleaded guilty in District Court to grand larceny and first degree burglary and was given sentences of one to 15 and two to 14 years, to run concurrently.

New York, Ohio Film Bans Held Illegal

Supreme Court Acts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Monday struck down New York and Ohio bans against two controversial movies, but withheld any general judgment on film censorship.

The justices had witnessed private showings of the disputed movies before reaching their unanimous decision.

Florence Shientag of New York, attorney for one of the film distributors, promptly hailed the decision as "an important blow at censorship."

"La Ronde" Although there was no dissent, two of the justices made it clear they believed the court should say flatly that movie censorship violates constitutional guarantees of a free speech and a free press.

The High Court reversed the decisions of New York and Ohio State courts which had upheld the banning of the French film "La Ronde," starring Simone Simon, and "M," a crime movie.

New York censors called "La Ronde" immoral. Ohio censors said "M" was "harmful" to the public.

Commercial Pictures Corp., distributor of "La Ronde," and Superior Films, Inc., producers of "M," asked the Supreme Court to strike down all movie censorship as unconstitutional.

Douglas Stand This the court refused to do, although upsetting the state bans on the two pictures.

Justice Douglas, speaking for himself and Justice Black, said he could not accept the argument of New York and Ohio that government may establish censorship over motion pictures.

"In this nation every writer, actor, or producer, no matter what medium of expression he may use, should be freed from the censor," Douglas said.

The main opinion, which was unsigned and consisted of three and one-half lines, merely announced the New York and Ohio court decisions were being reversed. It cited a 1952 decision by the Supreme Court that movies are entitled to the constitutional guarantees of free speech and press. But, the court said, this did not mean the movie industry is entitled to absolute freedom to show every sort of picture at all times and places.

FAIRBURY, Neb.—Mrs. M. L. Pickens, pioneer Fairbury settler, will celebrate her 98th birthday Thursday. She came to Nebraska with her parents and 12 brothers and sister from Ohio in 1869. They spent a short time in Nebraska City and then moved to the Bower community near Fairbury.

Mrs. Pickens recalls all the hardships of pioneer days, including the blizzard of 1888, the grasshopper years and daily menus of pork and cornmeal.

The early settlers feared prairie fires more than the Ohio Indians who camped along the Blue River, she says. An early-day school teacher, Mrs. Pickens recalls having to cross the river on a log in order to reach her school.

Mrs. Pickens makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Ina Helvey of Fairbury. She is in good health and her favorite pastime is listening to the radio. Her sight is not good enough for reading.

In addition to Mrs. Helvey, Mrs. Pickens has five other living children. They are Lewis of Canton, Okla., Plato of Huntley, Mont., Ernest and Mrs. Helen B. Yeager of Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. Nora Furlow of Coeur d'Alene, Ida.

She has 22 grandchildren, 59 great grandchildren and nine great great grandchildren. She also has four brothers, a half-brother and half-sister still living. They are Lee and Clark Bower of Denver, Irvin Bower of Ten Sleep, Wyo., Burnet Bower of Orem, Utah and Irene and Albert Bower of Phoenix, Ariz.

The early settlers feared prairie fires more than the Ojibwa Indians who camped along the Blue River, she says. An early school teacher, Mrs. Pickens recalls having to cross the river on a log in order to reach her school.

Mrs. Pickens makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Ina Helvey of Fairbury. She is in good health and her favorite pastime is listening to the radio. Her sight is not good enough for reading.

In addition to Mrs. Helvey, Mrs. Pickens has five other living children. They are Lewis of Canton, Okla., Plato of Huntley, Mont., Ernest and Mrs. Helen B. Yeager of Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. Nora Furlow of Coeur d'Alene, Ida.

She has 22 grandchildren, 59 great grandchildren and nine great great grandchildren. She also has four brothers, a half-brother and half-sister still living. They are Lee and Clark Bower of Denver, Irvin Bower of Ten Sleep, Wyo., Burnet Bower of Orem, Utah and Irene and Albert Bower of Phoenix, Ariz.

Operation Honesty Meeting Rejected

ALLIANCE, Neb. (P) — Chairman Leslie Stull of the Box Butte County Commission said the commission has rejected a request for an "Operation Honesty" meeting in the area.

"We have taken the oath of office that we will carry out our duties, which I feel we have done," Stull said, "so I don't see any reason to wear an 'honesty' button." He said the commission will do all it can to promote honest property returns, however.

High Court Agrees To Rule On Natural Gas Issue

Interstate Prices Are Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court, reversing itself, agreed Monday to rule on a lower court decision which has been blamed for confusion that might choke off natural gas supplies to some states.

The decision, which the high court refused last Nov. 30 to consider, was handed down by the U. S. Court of Appeals here. It decreed that the Federal Power Commission (FPC) is required to fix prices on interstate sales of natural gas by companies which produce and gather the fuel.

That ruling had reversed a finding by the power commission that Phillips Petroleum Co. was not a natural gas company within the meaning of the natural gas act and therefore the FPC had no jurisdiction over its rates.

Political Hot Potato
The issue involved has long been a political hot potato. Monday's Supreme Court action may head off a new fight in congress on the question.

After the high court turnaround in November, Gov. Edward F. Arn of Kansas urged Congress to "act at once" to strip the FPC of authority to regulate producers' sales of natural gas in interstate movement.

Congress passed such a bill during the administration of former President Truman but Truman vetoed it. Later the commission itself decided it did not have the power and that decision was reversed by the Court of Appeals here.

Monday's Supreme Court order did not go into the merits of the dispute. It merely noted agreement to review the case and that Justice Black dissented.

The issue was said by both sides to involve millions of dollars. It had arrayed the gas-buying midwest against the gas-producing states of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, which joined Phillips in asking for a high court ruling.

Judge Overrules Motion Attacking Hearing Legality

OMAHA (AP)—District Judge Carroll O. Stauffer Monday overruled a defense motion attacking the legality of a preliminary hearing held last Feb. 16 for Nick F. Johnson, who is charged with first degree murder in the deaths of Dr. and Mrs. Byron Hall at their Omaha home Feb. 2.

Defense attorneys argued that Johnson was insane at the preliminary hearing and that the proceedings therefore were void.

Still awaited from the judge was a ruling on a motion by County Attorney Eugene Fitzgerald asking a date for Johnson's trial. Fitzgerald said that unless Johnson is brought to trial by Feb. 1, there is a strong possibility that prosecution will be barred because of a deadline on the time for trial.

Johnson was declared insane last year by the County Board of Mental Health and has been confined to the Lincoln State Hospital.

No Desire To Limit Red Probe

... Adams Reports

WASHINGTON (AP)—President's Assistant Sherman Adams said Monday night the White House would like to set up a relatively permanent system for dealing with Communists. He said this would make congressional Red hunts less necessary in the future.

President Eisenhower's top aide gave his views to reporters in an interview recorded for the Mutual Broadcasting System, (Reporters' Roundup).

Adams replied "of course" to a question whether the White House would like to "set up some relatively basic permanent system for dealing with the Communists, whether they are in the government or not."

He added that he was speaking of "executive responsibility in these matters which we have accepted and which we are discharging." And he said there is not the slightest inference of a desire to "limit the latitude" of congressional committees, such as that headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), in making any investigations they wish. But he also added:

Less Inducement

"Obviously, if the executive department does its job so that there is a feeling not only on the part of Congress but the American people that this whole problem of Communism has been adequately dealt with, it is obviously going to make much less inducement on the part of the Congress to conduct these investigations."

The presidential assistant said he believes Eisenhower has emerged from the novice class as a politician, that the President has a "new sense of proportion" on political problems, "much firmer ground under his feet politically" than when he entered the White House a year ago.

Asked whether Eisenhower would stomp the country this fall in an effort to get a larger Republican majority in Congress, Adams said he thought the President could be expected to make some personal reports to the people on accomplishments and plans of the administration. "Without making partisan political speeches," he said, he wouldn't call it a stumping program and didn't think Eisenhower would cover the country as thoroughly as in the 1952 presidential campaign.

Adams objected to terming some of Eisenhower's legislative proposals "new dealism" or as favoring a "welfare state." He said they merely represent "real obligations of free government in a modern age" and he considers them as much Republican as Democratic doctrine.

He said he thinks Eisenhower likes his job now more than he had hoped he would. The President's health is excellent, Adams said, and his mood "always on the optimistic side."

County Court Wants To Give $938 To 34 Persons But Can't Find 'Em

The Lancaster County Court has listed nearly $1,000 in fees and funds from estates, guardianships and other sources which 34 persons may yet claim before it is turned over to the county general fund.

Judge Herbert Ronin will ask the county commissioners Tuesday for permission to pay into the general fund $938.78 which has been held by his office for ten years and has remained unclaimed by its rightful owners.

However, Judge Ronin said he would hold up "for a week or so" the payment of the money into the county fund to give these persons—which due search and court action has failed to locate—a last chance to claim the money.

Once the money has been paid into the county fund, there is no legal way whereby it can be paid to a claimant, Judge Ronin said. About 10 per cent of the amount listed in 1952 was unclaimed for ten years was paid to heirs and other prior to transfer from the court to the county, he added.

ATLANTA (AP)—Gov. Herman Talmadge Monday threatened to use the militia and state police, if necessary, to maintain segregation in Georgia schools.

At an organization meeting of a commission created to study means of continuing racial segregation in schools, Talmadge expressed hope that "it will not be necessary to resort to extreme action."

But he declared that "whatever it takes, I am ready to do it." The U. S. Supreme Court now is considering the segregation question.

Resistance Pledged
JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The Mississippi House Monday reaffirmed its determination to keep racial segregation, vowing to "resist by all lawful means" any attempt to abolish segregation in schools.

The House resolution putting "Mississippi on record as to what this state believes in" passed 93-3.

U.S. Seeks Permanent System For Dealing With Communists

No Desire To Limit Red Probe

... Adams Reports

WASHINGTON (AP)—President's Assistant Sherman Adams said Monday night the White House would like to set up a relatively permanent system for dealing with Communists. He said this would make congressional Red hunts less necessary in the future.

President Eisenhower's top aid gave his views to reporters in an interview recorded for the Mutual Broadcasting System, (Reporters' Roundup).

Adams replied "of course" to a question whether the White House would like to "set up some relatively basic permanent system for dealing with the Communists, whether they are in the government or not."

He added that he was speaking of "executive responsibility in these matters which we have accepted and which we are discharging." And he said there is not the slightest inference of a desire to "limit the latitude" of congressional committees, such as that headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), in making any investigations they wish. But he also added:

Less Inducement

"Obviously, if the executive department does its job so that there is a feeling in only on the part of Congress that the American people that this whole problem of Communism has been adequately dealt with, it is obviously going to make much less inducement on the part of the Congress to conduct these investigations."

The presidential assistant said he believes Eisenhower has emerged from the novice class as a politician, that the President has a "new sense of proportion" on political problems, "much firmer ground under his feet politically" than when he entered the White House a year ago.

Asked whether Eisenhower would stomp the country this fall in an effort to get a larger Republican majority in Congress, Adams said he thought the President could be expected to make some personal reports to the people on accomplishments and plans of the administration. "Without making partisan political speeches," he said he wouldn't call it a stump program and didn't think Eisenhower would cover the country as thoroughly as in the 1952 presidential campaign.

Adams objected to terming some of Eisenhower's legislative proposals "new dealism" or as favoring a "welfare state." He said they merely represent "real obligations of free government in a modern age" and he considers them as much Republican as Democratic doctrine.

He said he thinks Eisenhower likes his job now more than he had hoped he would. The President's health is excellent, Adams said, and his mood "always on the optimistic side."

County Court Wants To Give $938 To 34 Persons But Can't Find 'Em

The Lancaster County Court has listed nearly $1,000 in fees and funds from estates, guardianships and other sources which 34 persons may yet claim before it is turned over to the county general fund.

Judge Herbert Ronin will ask the county commissioners Tuesday for permission to pay into the general fund $938.78 which has been held by his office for ten years and has remained unclaimed by its rightful owners.

However, Judge Ronin said he would hold up "for a week or so" the payment of the money into the county fund to give these persons—which due search and court action has failed to locate—a last chance to claim the money.

Once the money has been paid into the county fund, there is no legal way whereby it can be paid to a claimant, Judge Ronin said. About 10 per cent of the amount listed in 1952 as unclaimed for ten years was paid to heirs and other prior to transfer from the court to the county, he added.

The list:

Listed are name, amount, source respectively: Bina I. Smith—$109.77, estate of Lucetta M. Boston; Harriet McElroy, Johnson—$100, estate of James H. A Little Of Everything

WELL, let's see what's what around town—Our little red book tells us that there is plenty of variety in the dawn's offerings—Parties; guests, bride-cleets, travelers and potential home owners share honors in the news of the morning—a morning, by the way, that we find most satisfactory—

BEFORE we begin checking off some of the above items in our lrb, we think we should send a word of greeting to Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Rehlaender on their 50th wedding anniversary today—Mr. and Mrs. Rehlaender aren't having a party to celebrate, but they will be joined for dinner by their son-in-laws and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Drew De-Vriendt, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ledford.

HAVE A bit of postscript to add to Monday's news of the Fifty Fifty Club—It seems that the organization has elected three new member couples who will be on hand for the dinner dance at Hotel Lincoln this evening—The newcomers to the Fifty Fifty group are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dooley of Papillion; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Christensen, Davey, and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Babst.

HEAR THAT Mrs. Clarence Hinds was in Sioux Falls, S.

D, the past week-end—Mrs. Hinds went to Sioux Falls to attend a tea for which Mrs. Harry Cameron was hostess between the hours of 2:30 and 5 o'clock, and at which it was announced that the marriage of Miss Caroline Cameron to Robert Hinds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hinds of Lincoln, would be solemnized on Saturday, June 5.

AND THIS is the morning that Mrs. L. M. Kalin and Mrs. E. A. Becker will compliment Miss Mary Desmond who is to marry Ted Fraizer in mid-February—Mrs. Kalin and Mrs. Becker have invited guests for a 10 o'clock coffee at the home of Mrs. Kalin, and a one-gift snower for the soon-to-be bride.

HEAR that Mrs. T. T. Varney Jr., and Mrs. E. C. Carrothers, both of Broken Bow, are spending a day or two—of three in Lincoln, visiting Mrs. Varney's mother, Mrs. C. B. Towle—

HAD YOU heard that the Browns—Dr. and Mrs. John H. and their family are leaving Colonial Village? It's true, they are—but they aren't going far—only to their new home recently purchased from Dr. and Mrs. John Peterson at 2701 Bradford Drive. Dr. and Mrs. Brown plan to move early in February.

MENTION of a medico reminds us of the party for which the members of the Lancaster County Medical Society auxiliary will be hostesses on Saturday evening when they entertain their husbands—We already have told you that the party—an annual affair—is to be held in the Terrace Room at Hotel Lincoln—and that Dr. and Mrs. Dwight Cherry and Dr. and Mrs. Roy Whitman are co-chairmen for the affair—One thing we didn't mention, however, is the smorgasbord which proceeds the dinner dance.

WHILE on party topics we may as well go ahead with news of the Saturday Night Club which will be dining and dancing on Jan. 23, at Hotel Cornhusker—The committee in charge of the party arrangements is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Boyer, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Joyce, Mr. and Mrs. Don Durfee, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lichtenberg and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith.

ANOTHER bright spot on the Saturday social calendar is the buffet supper for which Mr. and Mrs. Oil Barber Jr. will be host and hostess at their home when they compliment Mrs. Barber's cousins, Col. and Mrs. Alfred Clark (Clarissa Bennet) whose immediate past was Formosa—and whose immediate future is Norfolk, Va., and staff school for the colonel.

ON SUNDAY, so we hear, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Pool

will compliment Col. and Mrs. Clark when they entertain at an open house at their home.

LAST Sunday had some activity to its credit, too—a party for which Mr. and Mrs. C. Dean Lowry were host and hostess on Sunday afternoon, when they entertained informally in celebration of the 54th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Lowry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Burkett. Twenty guests were invited.

BEGAN wondering about Mr. and Mrs. C. Petrus Peterson and whether or not, during their visit in Lima, Peru, they had glimpsed the Gilmores, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene—So, thought we'd check, and see—Had a little trouble, though; the Petersons aren't home yet, but they'll be plane-ing in one day soon and then we'll know.

INCIDENTALLY—the Gilmores will be having other callers from Lincoln before long—but we promised not to tell—

BACK in town, as of yesterday, is Mrs. Carl Bumstead—Dr. and Mrs. Bumstead spent the holidays in California where they were the guests of relatives—Dr. Bumstead returned home about 10 days ago, but Mrs. Bumstead stayed on for a longer visit.

THE past week end brought Dr. Ruth Leverton home from the east coast and Chicago, where she spent two weeks.

The Navy Entertains

Last night was farewell party for hosts and hostesses at The Steak house to honor Capt. and Mrs. Murray who leave Lincoln soon for another assignment

A Little Of Everything

WELL, let's see what's what around town—Our little red book tells us that there is plenty of variety in the dawn's offerings—Parties; guests, bride-elects, travelers and potential home-owners share honors in the news of the morning—a morning, by the way, that we find most satisfactory—

BEFORE we begin checking off some of the above items in our list, we think we should send a word of greeting to Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Rehlaender on their 50th wedding anniversary today—Mr. and Mrs. Rehlaender aren't having a party to celebrate, but they will be joined for dinner by their son-in-laws and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Drew DeVriendt, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ledford.

HAVE A bit of postscript to add to Monday's news of the Fifty Fifty Club—It seems that the organization has elected three new member couples who will be on hand for the dinner dance at Hotel Lincoln this evening—The newcomers to the Fifty Fifty group are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dooley of Papillion; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Christensen, Davey, and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Babst.

HEAR THAT Mrs. Clarence Hinds was in Sioux Falls, S.

D., the past week-end—Mrs. Hinds went to Sioux Falls to attend a tea for which Mrs. Harry Cameron was hostess between the hours of 2:30 and 5 o'clock, and at which it was announced that the marriage of Miss Caroline Cameron to Robert Hinds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hinds of Lincoln, would be solemnized on Saturday, June 5.

AND THIS is the morning that Mrs. L. M. Kalin and Mrs. E. A. Becker will compliment Miss Mary Desmond who is to marry Ted Fraizer in mid-February—Mrs. Kalin and Mrs. Becker have invited guests for a 10 o'clock coffee at the home of Mrs. Kalin, and a one-gift shower for the soon-to-be bride.

HEAR that Mrs. T. T. Varney Jr., and Mrs. E. C. Carrothers, both of Broken Bow, are spending a day or two—or three in Lincoln, visiting Mrs. Varney's mother, Mrs. C. B. Towle—

HAD YOU heard that the Browns—Dr. and Mrs. John III, and their family are leaving Colonial Village? It's true, they are—but they aren't going far—only to their new home recently purchased from Dr. and Mrs. John Peterson at 2701 Bradford Drive. Dr. and Mrs. Brown plan to move early in February.

MENTION of a medico reminds us of the party for which the members of the Lancaster County Medical Society auxiliary will be hostesses on Saturday evening when they entertain their husbands—We already have told you that the party—an annual affair—is to be held in the Terrace Room at Hotel Lincoln—and that Dr. and Mrs. Dwight Cherry and Dr. and Mrs. Roy Whitham are co-chairmen for the affair—One thing we didn't mention, however, is the smorgasbord which precedes the dinner dance.

WHILE on party topics we may as well go ahead with news of the Saturday Night Club which will be dining and dancing on Jan. 23, at Hotel Cornhusker—The committee in charge of the party arrangements is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Boyer, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Joyce, Mr. and Mrs. Don Durfee, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lichtenberg and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith.

ANOTHER bright spot on the Saturday social calendar is the buffet supper for which Mr. and Mrs. Oil Barber Jr. will be host and hostess at their home when they compliment Mrs. Barber's cousins, Col. and Mrs. Alfred Clark (Clarissa Bennet) whose immediate past was Formosa—and whose immediate future is Norfolk, Va., and staff school for the colonel.

ON SUNDAY, so we hear, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Pool

will compliment Col. and Mrs. Clark when they entertain at an open house at their home.

LAST Sunday had some activity to its credit, too—a party for which Mr. and Mrs. C. Dean Lowry were host and hostess on Sunday afternoon, when they entertained informally in celebration of the 54th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Lowry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Burkett. Twenty guests were invited.

BEGAN wondering about Mr. and Mrs. C. Petrus Peterson and whether or not, during their visit in Lima, Peru, they had glimpsed the Gilmores, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene—So, thought we'd check, and see—Had a little trouble, though; the Petersons aren't home yet, but they'll be plane-ing in one day soon and then we'll know.

INCIDENTALLY—the Gilmores will be having other callers from Lincoln before long—but we promised not to tell—

BACK in town, as of yesterday, is Mrs. Carl Bumstead—Dr. and Mrs. Bumstead spent the holidays in California where they were the guests of relatives—Dr. Bumstead returned home about 10 days ago, but Mrs. Bumstead stayed on for a longer visit.

THE past week end brought Dr. Ruth Leverton home from the east coast and Chicago, where she spent two weeks.

The Navy Entertains

Last night was farewell party night as far as the naval air station officers and their wives—and Capt. and Mrs. H. J. Murray were concerned. The officers and their wives were dinner hosts and hostesses at The Steak house to honor Capt. and Mrs. Murray who leave Lincoln soon for another assignment.

Writers Guild Has Program

The members of the Lincoln Writers Guild met Monday evening for dinner at Kopper Kettle with Mrs. Gladys Walter of Aurora as guest.

Mrs. John Steele, president conducted the short meeting after which the program on poetry was presented by Mrs. Marshall Neely. Several manuscripts were read by members.

Also coming from out of town for the dinner-meeting was Miss Iva Green of Crete, a member of the guild.

Elliot PTA To Hear Talk

The January meeting of Elliott PTA will be held Tuesday at 7:30 o'clock at the school. After a talk by Dr. William Hall of the University of Nebraska teachers' college on the topic, "Citizenship—A Double Duty," a program on safety will be presented.

Phillip Kelly will preside at the business meeting.

We Hear That--

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Moeller announce the birth of a son, Steven James, Saturday at St. Elizabeth Hospital. Mrs. Moeller is the former Carole Erickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Erickson. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Forest W. Moeller.

Install New Officers

The new officers of the Lincoln Toastmistress Club, who were installed following the dinner-meeting of the group at the Capital Hotel Monday evening, are (seated from the left) Miss Annie Laurie Smith, president, and Mrs. Bertha Johnston, vice president. Standing are Mrs. Esther Tyler (at left), secretary and Miss Esteline Porter, treasurer.

Miss Mercedes Ames presided as toastmistress for the program which featured extemporaneous talks on the Toastmistress Club training in public speaking given by Mrs. Angeline Camp, outgoing president. Mrs. Josephine Eymen, Miss Annie Laurie Smith and Mrs. Margaret Foster.

Mrs. Bertha Johnston was topic mistress during the dinner, and general evaluator was Miss Esteline Porter.

City Lines Proposes Dropping State Hospital, West O Bus Routes

'Complete Financial Losses'

Plans for abandonment of the State Hospital and West O bus routes have been presented to the City Council by officials of Lincoln City Lines.

Describing the two lines as complete financial losses were J. E. Schleckman, local City Lines manager, D. S. Peck, Salt Lake City, City Lines district manager, and C. E. Morgan, traffic engineer for the parent Chicago company of National City Lines.

Transportation throughout the country, said Peck, is in a bad way. The co-operation rendered by Lincoln through its bus committee, said Peck, has been the company's only salvation here.

On the West O line which the company will ask the State Railway Commission to discontinue this week, said Peck, total revenue was $1.95 on Sunday, Jan. 10. That represents three cents a mile, said Peck, while it costs the company 34 cents a mile to run a bus.

$5.55

Total revenue on the State Hospital line the same day, said Peck, was $5.55.

The average revenue on all lines on Jan. 10, he said, was 15 cents per mile.

On all routes, he said, the average revenue per mile is 29 cents from 6 to 9 p.m. and drops to 19 cents from 9 p.m. to midnight. During December, he said, there was a 3.29 passenger-per-mile average in Lincoln on all routes, while the average on all 32 National holdings is 4.256 passengers per mile.

Questioning the wisdom of removing the State Hospital line, Mayor Clark Jeary stated that the company's operation must be viewed from an overall angle and some projects accepted for public convenience and necessity even though they might not be a paying proposition in themselves.

Company officials conceded that point but pointed to their Sunday

JUNGE NEW SAFETY DIRECTOR; PAY AND DUTIES HIKED

Emmett Junge, 49, secretary-treasurer of the H. P. Lau Co., has been selected by the City Council as Lincoln's new welfare and safety director.

With the appointment goes both an increase in the salary paid the director and additional duties. Resigning Director Ray Osborn received $7,220 per year while Junge will receive $8,000 per year for the remainder of this fiscal year and $9,000 per year beginning with the Sept. 1, 1954 fiscal year.

Additional duties are involved in the transfer of the parks and recreation departments from the department of parks, public property and improvements to the welfare and safety department. Included under welfare and safety now are the police and fire departments, certain licensing requirements of the city and the city's end of the city-county health department.

Junge's appointment will become effective Feb. 15. By that time, the Council also hopes to have the parks and recreation founded by his grandfather in 1870.

Appreciate Confidence

"I appreciate the confidence the mayor and Council have placed in me by asking me to take this position," said Junge, "and only hope I can continue the same fine administration that has been rendered by Mr. Osborn."

"I have no intentions of any personnel changes within the department. I know all department heads personally and as an interested citizen have always felt they are doing a fine job."

In accord with Council desires, Junge stated he considered the appointment permanent.

Junge is past president of the Chamber of Commerce, past director of the Lincoln Country Club and University Club, past president of the general council of Phi Delta Theta fraternity and is now president of the Civic Baseball Association.

He is presently vice-chairman of the Air Base Co-ordinating Committee and the Off-Street Parking Citizens Committee. He will resign those two posts before taking office.

In making the draft of Mr. Junge for the position so ably filled by Director Osborn, we are of the opinion that a step has been taken that will permit us to continue our study of departmental operation and to effect those changes which will be for the best interest of the city."

In accepting the appointment, Junge agreed to give full time to the job. He will continue, however, in an advisory capacity with the H. P. Lau Co., a firm tributing "sectarian religious propaganda."

W. H. Hendricksen, president of the local Gideons, said his organization had "no quarrel with the school board" but "strongly objects to the Rev. Domas' statement 'that the Bible is sectarian religious propaganda.'"

Hendricksen said that some of the 23 members of his group had suggested delivering the Bibles door-to-door but that he felt it would be too big a task to handle.

"We realize," he said, "that men have used portions of the Bible in building sectarian beliefs but that doesn't mean that the Bible itself is sectarian."

School Board Ruling Keeps Gideons From Delivering Nearly 2,000 Bibles

The Lincoln Gideons Camp said Monday night it knows the names and addresses of 1,500 to 2,000 families in Lincoln who would like to receive the group's free pocket-size Bible but has no way to distribute them.

Lincoln's Board of Education decided recently that it will no longer distribute the request slips, sent by the school children to their parents for signature, or the Bibles, sent when the requests are returned.

The decision arose from a complaint by the Rev. I. J. Domas of the Unitarian Church of Lincoln against the use of tax-supported schools, with or without parental consent, for dis-

Approval has been given by the City Council to payment of an increased dues by Lincoln for membership in the League of Nebraska Municipalities. The dues will go from $112.50 per year to $135 per year.

Fine Choice

Osborn, who has resigned to enter private business said he felt "the Council has made a fine choice. Mr. Junge brings with him wide business and civic experience. He is an A-1 man for the job."

"Mr. Junge," said the Council report on the appointment, "will bring with him an intimate knowledge of the city. He gained this through a lifetime of resi-

U.S. Turns Down Mothers' Appeals To See PW Sons

WASHINGTON (INS)—The defense Department Monday turned down pleas of three tearful women who asked to go to Korea and try to induce two of the 21 non-repatriated Americans to come home.

Assistant Defense Secretary John A. Hannah told relatives of Corp. Arron Wilson, 21, of Umana, La., and Corp. Otto G. Bell, 22, of Hillsboro, Miss., that there is no way under the cease-fire terms that an interview with the balking war prisoners could be arranged.

Making the appeal to Hannah were Mrs. H. B. Wilson, 43, of Alexandria, La., mother of Wilson; Mrs. Myrtle Rogers, 19, Wilson's sister; and Jewell Olson Bell, 20, of Olympia, Wash., wife of Corp. Bell.

Hannah reiterated the Defense Department's position that the armistice arrangements do not provide for any interviews by other than the explaining teams whose work is already completed.

Judgment Ordered

The Federal Court has ordered a default judgment of $751.80 against Stanley A. and Esther Rickert of 324 So. 19th for recovery by the United States of family allowances paid to the wife from Jan. 1 through Oct. 31, 1944 subsequent to the husband's discharge from the Armed Forces.

Company officials conceded that point but pointed to their Sunday and evening operations which they said they were subsidizing on all routes.

The company asserted that the state now runs a bus of its own in competition to the State Hospital line. The Huskerville bus line, they said, intends to ask the State Railway Commission for permission to pick up the West O service.

The company stated it also plans to move its No. 10th Street bus over to No. 9th to facilitate those passengers living west of 9th who have ridden the State Hospital line.

Other changes will call for the staggering of certain buses so no two buses will be following each other over the same route. Thus, said the company, some night buses will run on the hour and some on the half hour so passengers will receive 30-minute instead of one-hour service.

The company was requested by the Council and agreed to file a statement every 90 days on its operations and financial condition.

Only Councilman Rees Wilkinson was not in harmony with the appointment.

"I have no objection to Mr. Junge," said Wilkinson, "as he is a fine man but I do believe consideration should have been given to finding someone for the post from the city ranks. When the existing form of government was adopted, three directors were chosen from the ranks and the city certainly made no mistake then."

Wilkinson stated that his first choice for the job was Chief of Police Joseph Carroll. Wilkinson suggested that one of the present city employees be given the job on a temporary basis to prove his ability to do the work and to give the Council more time to explore other fields.

Fine Choice
Osborn, who has resigned to enter private business said he felt "the Council has made a fine choice. Mr. Junge brings with him wide business and civic experience. He is an A-1 man for the job."

"Mr. Junge," said the Council report on the appointment, "will bring with him an intimate knowledge of the city. He gained this through a lifetime of resi-

Sen. Butler Opposes Social Security Hike

For Return To 1½ Pct.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hugh Butler (R-Neb.) says he is opposed to the increase in the Social Security tax from 1½ per cent to 2 per cent and would favor a return to the lower rate.

The increase went into effect Jan. 1, 1954.

Butler is second ranking Republican on the Senate Finance Committee, which has jurisdiction over Social Security legislation.

"During the past year, taxes received and interest earned by the fund amounted to approximately four billion, 400 million dollars while benefit payments and administrative costs were only a little over $3 billion," Butler said in a statement.

No Need For Increase

"Thus, even under the present 1½ per cent tax, the fund was built up by over $1 billion during the past year. It now has assets of 18 billion, 800 million dollars.

"I don't see any need to increase this particular tax burden, when the present level of tax is already taking in more than the fund needs."

Postponing the increase would not affect benefit payments, Butler declared.

"It is my thought that Congress should act quickly, early in the session, to prevent this increase from going into effect, so as to clear the way for whatever action Congress takes on the general legislation to extend coverage," he said.

$210 For McCook Airport Okayed

The State Aeronautics Commission Monday announced allocation of an additional $210 to the City of McCook for additions to the electrical system for the administration building under construction at the McCook airport.

The original allocation was $5,700, which the city is matching, dollar for dollar.

The commission at a meeting here also went on record urging the federal government to continue low frequency communication and navigation facilities at Scottsbluff.

High-frequency facilities are not available at Scottsbluff, but some facilities are needed in the national interest, Director J. D. Ramsey said.

The commission authorized Ramsey and State Airport Engineer Steve Gilbert to obtain sentiment in the Sandhills area relative to possible development of additional airport facilities in that section.

The only municipal field in the area is the one at Mullen. There are many small private landing fields, but they are inadequate for commercial craft.

Ramsey pointed out that it is 125 miles across the area from Alliance to North Platte, 130 miles from the South Dakota border to North Platte and 170 miles from Alliance to Broken Bow.

There is a string of airports along the north rim of the state.

Frank Morrison Completes Filing

Frank B. Morrison of McCook Monday completed filing with the Secretary of State for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the First District.

Morrison, an attorney, announced his candidacy Jan. 7 when he paid his filing fee at McCook.

He seeks the seat now held by Rep. Carl Curtis, Minden Republican.

Morrison unsuccessfully sought the Democratic nomination for governor in 1950.

The suit alleges responsibility of the parents for the action of their minor son, who was residing with them and was under their care at the time of the alleged incident.

The Jacobs ask $2,608 for house damages, $1,017 for damage to furniture, and $2,293 for loss of clothing and other personal property.

BILL JOHNSON SETS TWO SCORING RECORDS

10 Jobs Open For Head Mentor In Annual Shift

By BOB HOODING
NEW YORK (AP) — Michigan State and Kansas have completed changes in football's annual mid-winter shuffle but there are still almost a dozen colleges in the market for a head coach.

There are jobs open at Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Texas A. & M., Iowa State, Marquette, Idaho, North Carolina State, Toledo, East Texas State and William Penn of Iowa.

A shift at Michigan State was completed when Hugh (Duff) Daugherty was promoted from an assistant to head coach when Clarence (Biggie) Munn advanced to the athletic directorship.

Charles V. Mather, who hadn't even applied for the job, was hired by Kansas to succeed Jules V. Sikes, who resigned. Mather, whose Massillon, Ohio, high school teams lost only three games in six years, follows in the footsteps of Paul Brown, who went to Ohio State from Massillon before taking over the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League.

Resignations have accounted for the remaining vacancies except at Marquette which Lisle Blackburn left to take charge of the professional Green Bay Packers.

A pair of former Penn stars are among the candidates for the Pennsylvania assignment but Oklahoma backfield coach Bill Jennings is reportedly the leading choice at the moment.

Frank Reagan, backfield coach of the Philadelphia Eagles, and 1943 All-American Bob Odell, currently on the Wisconsin staff, are the former Penn aces. Others mentioned frequently include Frank Broyles, backfield mentor at Georgia Tech where he quarterbacked in the mid-40's; Lew Elverson of Swarthmore and Rixey, now athletic director at Penn.

Penn officials are giving their selection plenty of thought. Ex-head man George Munger resigned a year ago effective at the end of the '53 season.

News of progress at Minnesota has subsided since alumnus Bud Wilkinson, with a 10-year contract at Oklahoma, made it plain he wouldn't accept Gopher offers. The opening at the Big Ten school occurred when Wes Fesler resigned to take a job with a Minneapolis radio station.

The leading candidate appears to be George (Butch) Nash, an assistant at Minnesota since 1947. Michigan State End Coach Earl Edwards; John Roning, Utah State coach and former director of the Minnesota backfield; and Milt Bruhn, line coach at Wisconsin, are the others most frequently mentioned.

Sikes, who announced his resignation at Kansas on the last day of the season after the Jayhawkers won only two of 10 games, is one of the most frequently mentioned for the Texas Aggies job. Ray George resigned two weeks ago to go into private business. Sikes is an Aggie graduate.

The Aggies also have cast eyes in the direction of H. N. (Rusty) Russell, former coach at Southern Methodist; Johnny Vaught of Mississippi; Mike Brumbelow of Texas Western; Aggie line coach Mike Michalske; SMU assistant Dick Todd and Jim Tatum, coach of Maryland's national champions.

Tatum's name also has been prominently mentioned in connection with the position left open at North Carolina State when Horace Hendrickson resigned. But even after a recent visit to the Carolina school, Tatum denied any talk of change of employment.

Blackburn's departure from Marquette has left backfield coach George Terlep as his logical successor. However, the word is that Notre Dame assistant Terry Brennan, a high-stepping back for the Irish and successful coach in the Chicago area, and Kenosha, Wis., High School Coach Chuck Jaskwich also are being considered.

Most recent visitor to Ames, Ia., to talk about the Iowa State position vacated by Emmett (Abe) Stuber was Forest W. England, head coach at Arkansas State College. Others interviewed in recent days were Charles Purvis, backfield coach at Illinois, Trevor Rees, head coach and athletic director at Kent State in Ohio, and Vic DeFrancesca of Western Illinois State.

In addition Indiana aide Bob Fitch, Temple's Al Kaval, Lloyd Hollingsworth of Gustavus Adolphus and former Minnesotan Bernie Bierman reportedly are being eyed by the Iowa State selection committee.

Boise Junior College Coach Lyle Smith, a graduate of the university, is the most frequently mentioned.

Glassford Opens Outstate Tour; Holds No Grudge

Bill Glassford, backed by a new vote of confidence by the Athletic Board and Board of Regents, was back at his University of Nebraska football chores Monday.

Glassford was looking ahead to a pair of outstate speaking engagements — at Indiana Wednesday and at Sidney Thursday. He will be accompanied by John Bentley, director of sports publicity.

Glassford said that he is "holding no grudges" against the 43 squad members who signed a petition to oust him.

"All men will be welcome when spring drills start in April," he said. "The best 11 players will make up the first team, the next best 11 the second team and so on." Spring drills end on All Sports Day, May 1.

There has been no indication for any of the 43 players as to whether they will carry out their threat "to never again play for Glassford."

"A lot can happen between now and the spring drills," one player remarked.

named in connection with the Idaho job. But at present nobody appears to have an inside track.

Jerry Williams, former half-back at Washington State now with the Philadelphia Eagles, and College of Idaho assistant Eddie Cole are getting plenty of attention for the position vacated by Raymond (Babe) Curfman.

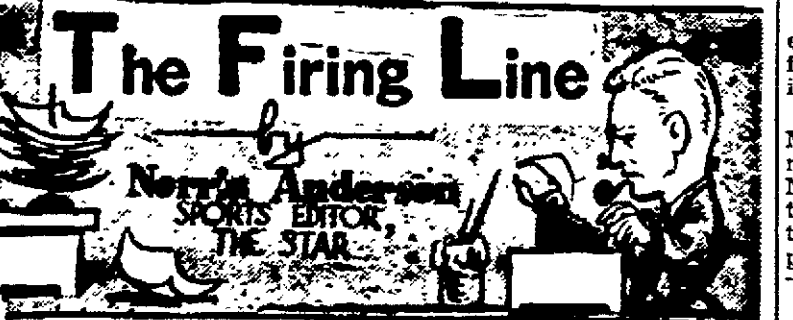

Tony DeMarco Wins 9th Straight, Beats Wilson

BOSTON (AP) — Tough Tony DeMarco scored his ninth straight triumph in a campaign for national recognition in the welterweight boxing ranks Monday night with an unanimous 10-round decision over fellow Bostonian Wilbur Wilson in Boston Garden. DeMarco weighed 143½, Wilson 145.

DeMarco had to protect a bad eye cut for the last five rounds to win.

The two 22-year-olds pleased a crowd of 8,763 who paid a gate of $22,900 and net of $17,120 by slamming away for the full route.

Frank Ramsey, basketball star at the University of Kentucky, is the number one draft choice of the Boston Celtics in the NBA.

Some 1,900 Stockholders Can't Be Wrong

Can history repeat?
There is the question as a drive for $25,000 opens this week to assure Western League baseball in Lincoln for 1954.

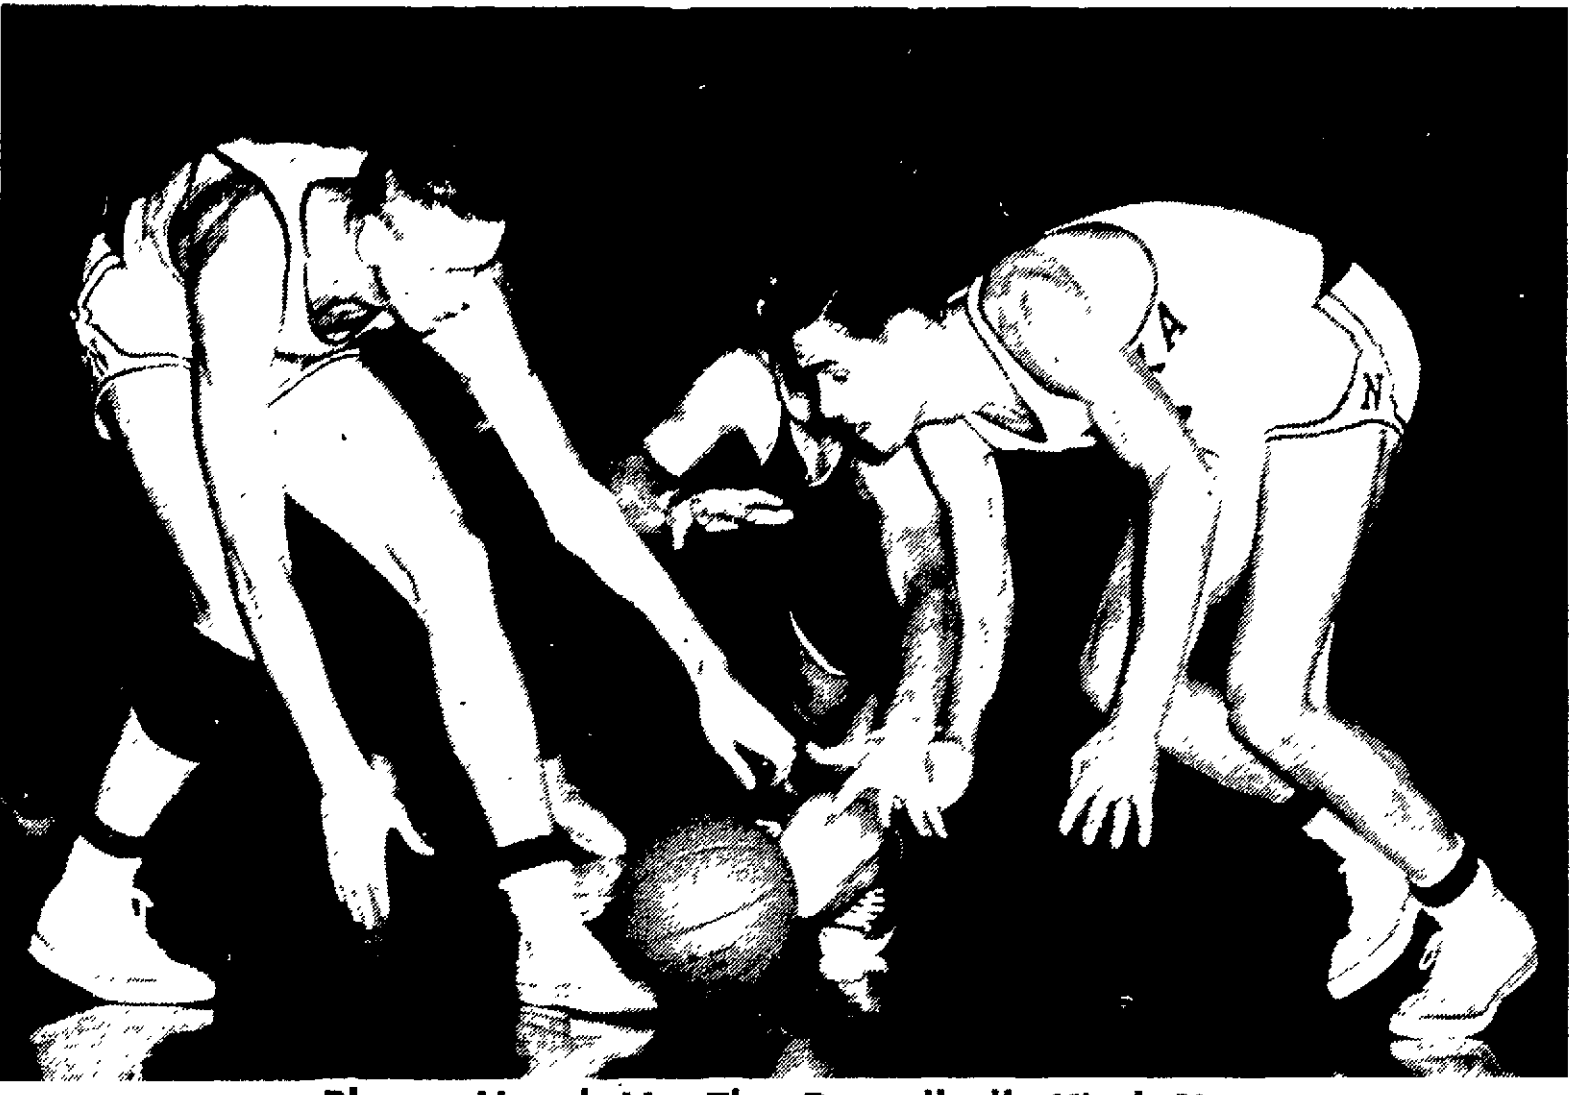

Some 1,900 stockholders in the Chiefs will convene Wednesday night at Hotel Cornhusker to map out the drive. A fund committee, headed by Vaulx Risser, has already been named.

The Chiefs Norm Brown are far ahead of where they were at this time a year ago. At that time, the team didn't have a name, a major league connection or any players.

Now the Chiefs are established as tough members in the fast Western League. They are tied up with the rich Milwaukee Braves and they own 11 players outright, including All-Western League stars in Pitcher Norm Brown and Second Baseman Fred Hancock.

They said it could not be done a year ago. Yet the desire to keep Western League baseball in Lincoln brought nearly $40,000 into the coffers. All of the league bowed low to the stout baseball supporters in the Nebraska Capitol.

'Sophomore Jinx' Holds No Terrors For Gilliam

BROOKLYN (AP) — The sophomore jinx holds no terror for Junior Gilliam, Brooklyn's National League rookie of 1953.

"I just don't believe in that sort of thing," said the 23-year-old switch-hitter who made a big hit when he took over Jackie Robinson's job at second base. "Those superstitions don't bother me. I think a player should improve to a certain age before he starts going downhill. I don't think I've hit that age yet."

"I'm looking ahead to a good season," said Gilliam Monday. "I think I'll know the league and the pitchers better after a year's experience. Of course, the pitchers will know me better, too. No pitcher was easy for me last year. Some days I'd reach a good pitcher for two or three hits, then be stopped by a less able pitcher the next afternoon."

He looked in good shape and said he was only five or six pounds over his regular playing weight of 175. He passed up winter ball this year for a good job with a New York brewery and figures the layoff will help considerably.

"I should be more rested for the 1954 season because I'm not playing winter ball," he said. "The club suggested that I keep away from baseball during the off season and I agreed. Last year I got off to a poor start and didn't get going real well until after the all-star game break, which gave me a five-day rest."

The figures show how his average zoomed in the second half. He was hitting a paltry .236 up to the all-star game. In the second half he banged away at a .320 clip and finished up with a .278 mark in 151 games.

He led the league in triples with 17, was tied for second in walks with 100 (a rookie record), was third in stolen bases with 21, and fourth in runs scored with 125.

Lincoln Gun Club Elects Officers, Plans Shoot
The Lincoln Gun Club has elected officers for 1954, and the first big event during their term in office will be a trophy shoot.

Elected president was Richard M. Baker. Alfred Behrens is the new vice-president and Donald Nielsen takes over as secretary-treasurer. The club is planning a trophy shoot next week, weather permitting.

Seven more counties were added to the list in which 25 bulletheads may be taken by a fisherman per day. These counties are Arthur, McPherson, Grant, Blaine, Garden, Hooker and Thomas.

The total number of fish allowed a fisherman in one day is still 25 total with the individual limits still in effect in arriving at this aggregated total.

Police Reprimand Youths Involved In Wesleyan Breakin

Police released with a stern warning eight Lincoln high school students who were caught playing basketball Sunday—without permission—in Nebraska Wesleyan's new $400,000 gymnasium and fieldhouse.

Officials of the University told police they would not prefer charges of trespassing against the youths, all under 19 years of age, if the incident didn't happen again.

Police said the youths, from all three of Lincoln's public high schools, had climbed through a window in the new gymnasium to gain entrance. They said, however, that nothing was damaged.

Chancellor Carl Bracy said the charges wouldn't be preferred in hopes the boys would realize their mistake and would help, in the future, to curb vandalism.

University officials noted that vandalism, some of it malicious, had taken place at the old gymnasium and that they hoped it would not continue at the new fieldhouse which contains some $34,000 worth of equipment.

School and recreation officials in the city have noted recently an intensified need for greater facilities for youths to "let off some of the steam," and to provide supervised recreation.

Wesleyan athletic officials said this is being done in part by taking the baskets from the old gym and placing them on open courts for use during the summer.

Wisconsin Defeats Spartans, 57-53

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Wisconsin took an early lead, then fought off a Michigan State comeback drive to win a low-scoring Big Ten basketball game Monday night, 57-53.

Wisconsin now has a 3-3 conference won-lost record. It was the third loss against only one conference victory for Michigan State.

Paul Morrow, the six-foot, 7½-inch Wisconsin center, pumped in 18 points to lead the Badger scoring.

Guard Ron Weisner, who made 10 of his points on free throws, contributed 16 to the Wisconsin cause.

Michigan State outscored Wisconsin 18 field goals to 16 but the Badgers more than made up for the free throw line, hitting 25 of 30 attempts to 17 made in 23 tries for Michigan State.

Schlundt Sets Mark As Hoosiers Win

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Don Schlundt, Indiana University's 6-foot-10 scoring machine, Monday night snapped a Big Ten record with a whopping 47 points as the Hoosiers downed Ohio State with ease 94-72.

Iowa's Dick Ives set the old Western Conference standard against Chicago in 1944 with a 43-point performance. In addition Monday night, Schlundt broke the Indiana Fieldhouse record of 36 points set by Purdue's Carl McNulty in February, 1952. On that same night Schlundt had scored 35 against the Purdue center.

Schlundt hit 16 field goals in 27 shots.

Prep basketball in Cornhuskerland today once again is a light affair, the heavy action awaiting Friday night.

One game which could please southeast Nebraska fans comes off in Nebraska City where the Pioneers attempt to delay the rush of that Falls City Tiger toward another conference championship.

Nebraska City has had a slow year while nobody has stalked the Tigers successfully.

For the Pioneers, the conference title race is only a memory, but the team from the Apple City is tall and can push the Richardson County club in the tight Nebraska City gymnasium.

Fiore TKO's Babe Herman In Third

BROOKLYN, N. Y. (AP) — Carmine Fiore, Brooklyn lightweight, scored a technical knockout over Freddie (Babe) Herman of Los Angeles at the end of the third round in a scheduled 10-rounder at Eastern Parkway Arena Monday night. Fiore weighed 146½, Herman 140.

Referee Jack Watson halted the televised bout because Herman complained that his right leg was paralyzed. The bell for the fourth round did not sound and under New York State rules the bout was called a TKO at the end of the third round.

Fiore connected with a left hook to the stomach and a left and right to the body as the bell rang ending the third round. The Los Angeles boxer limped to his corner and after an examination the bout was halted.

Syracuse Is Leading State In Class C

Syracuse High, the basketball school which has been shooting for a state Class C championship the past few years, moves ahead of nine of the best C squads in the Cornhusker state in today's Star rankings.

The Rockets from Otes County last week finally defeated an old and stout foe, Omaha Holy Name, to earn the No. 1 position.

They keep company with Glenvil High, still atop the Class D roll after another excellent week of action.

Syracuse beat a Holy Name team which was rated as one of the best in Class B, possibly the

Tulsa To Drop Spring Sports

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The University of Tulsa, a member of the Missouri Valley Conference, dropped its spring sports program Monday in a step toward trimming mounting athletic deficits.

In a terse announcement on which he said there would be no elaboration, Dr. C. I. Pontius, university president, said the school's board of trustees voted to continue only the football and basketball programs.

The decision to abandon tennis, golf, baseball and track also was unanimous, Pontius added.

Prior to today's meeting of the trustees it had been reported they might act to curtail the football or basketball programs as well.

It has been estimated the elimination of the spring sports will save anywhere from $7,000 to $10,000 annually.

Since Tulsa closed a losing football season last fall there have been recurring newspaper reports that part or all of its intercollegiate athletic program was jeopardized by climbing costs and dwindling revenue.

Unofficial estimates have set the losses for the 1952-53 participation in all sports at close to $90,000, about $50,000 of which reportedly was eliminated by public subscriptions to a Tulsa Quarterback Club fund-raising campaign. Other estimates have set the possible deficit for 1953-54 as high as $125,000.

In St. Louis, Arthur Eilers, commissioner of the Missouri Valley Conference, said he was sorry to hear about the University's decision, but added "they know their own problems."

The departure of Tulsa from spring sports leaves tennis, golf and baseball a five-team valley affair. The track championship, with St. Louis University failing to field a team last spring, apparently will become a four-way contest among the other members—Oklahoma A & M, Houston, Wichita and Detroit.

Kentucky Tops INS List For 4th Straight Week

NEW YORK (INS)—Power-laden Kentucky, the nation's top basketball team for the fourth straight week, survived its 13 remaining foes Monday with the expectant hope of going through the season undefeated.

The Wildcats, voted the No. 1 team in the International News Service weekly cage survey four weeks ago and still there, have raced through 11 opponents without a scratch, and the remaining teams on the Kentucky schedule do not appear capable of derauling its all-winning express.

Kentucky, Duquesne and Western Kentucky remained the only big-time basketball clubs with unblemished records as the colleges made the far turn and headed for home. Connecticut, which the NCAA lists as a "major" team but does not play a big-time schedule, also is undefeated, along with four other schools.

Holy Cross, in fifth place in the INS rankings last week after racking up ten wins, fell from the unbeaten class when Notre Dame, a late comer to the top, upset the crusaders.

Hank Sauer Signs 1954 Cub Contract

CHICAGO (AP)—Hank Sauer, who tapered off to 19 home runs last season after belting 37 in 1952, Monday forwarded his signed 1954 contract to the Chicago Cubs.

"I only hope I can repeat a 1952 year for the club and for the people of Chicago," the slugger outfielder said in a note with his contract. "I will fight with all I've got. I'm in good shape after playing golf and handball."

Sauer was voted the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1952 with his 37 homers and league-leading 121 runs batted in. Last year he was hampered by three bone fractures in his hand and saw limited service. He hit 263 in 108 games and drove in 60 runs.

Veteran Outfielder Hal Jeffcoat and Rookie Outfielder Don Robertson also signed up with the Cubs Monday to bring the total of players now in the fold to 10.

Clarkson beat Brainard to leap into fifth place while the losers drop to seventh behind Cairo.

Chappell falls from first place after a close win at Imperial, a team with only a fair record. The defending champions looked potent until the Imperial shave and may rebound with impressive performances this week.

Clay Center is sixth after a one-point win at Newman Grove. Reynolds, victor over Chester earlier, holds position No. 7.

Hampton and Lyman are eighth and ninth with Craig and Weston tied for tenth.

Charles' Hook That Flattened Satterfield Looked Like Joe's

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP) — Caught short:

That tremendous left hook with which Ezzard Charles flattened Bob Satterfield the other night must have been thrown from memory—the memory of the left which Jersey Joe Walcott landed on Ezzard's jaw in winning the heavyweight title.

It was a beautiful blow, if you admire violence and the tingle to the sight of a man being knocked unconscious. It looked to be stout enough to put any man down, but appearances are deceptive.

Satterfield is renowned as a slugger, but also as a man with an allergy when it comes to punches to the jaw, and a punch which would make him lose all interest in his immediate surroundings would leave a less sensitive individual upright, if blinking rapidly.

Such an individual as Rocky Marciano, for example. After watching Marciano take the best Walcott could hand out at Philadelphia, we believe he could take a half-dozen shots such as the one that disposed of Satterfield and still keep coming.

In fact, his ability to take it won the championship for him, and made his next fight with Walcott a quickie. Walcott knew he had hit Rocky solidly time and again. We still recall one body punch literally lifting Marciano off his feet.

Nothing happened, and the knowledge that his best blows couldn't stop Marciano unquestionably left a sense of futility and frustration which made him an easy victim in their next meeting.

Regardless of the potency of Charles' punch, or lack of same, we believe he is the best opponent for the champion right now, but we'd like to warn him that if he was confused by the swarming tactics of Satterfield he'd best beware. Satterfield's swarming is just a gentle, leisurely buzzing compared to what he might expect when Marciano comes out of his corner.

Eddie Stanky again is setting the price of meat at $2 a pound. It's going to cost each of his St. Louis Cardinals that much for each pound he takes to training camp in excess to the limit set by the scrappy little manager.

If memory serves, Stanky himself was forced to fork over

Syracuse Is Leading State In Class C

By BILL FITZGERALD

Syracuse High, the basketball school which has been shooting for a state Class C championship the past few years, moves ahead of nine of the best C squads in the Cornhusker state in today's Star ratings.

The Rockets from Otoe County last week finally defeated an old and stout foe, Omaha Holy Name, to earn the No. 1 position.

They keep company with Glenvil High, still atop the Class D roll after another excellent week of action.

Tulsa To Drop Spring Sports

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The University of Tulsa, a member of the Missouri Valley Conference, dropped its spring sports program Monday in a step toward trimming mounting athletic deficits.

In a terse announcement on which he said there would be no elaboration, Dr. C. I. Pontius, university president, said the school's board of trustees voted to continue only the football and basketball programs.

The decision to abandon tennis, golf, baseball and track also was unanimous, Pontius added.

Prior to today's meeting of the trustees it had been reported they might act to curtail the football or basketball programs as well.

It has been estimated the elimination of the spring sports will save anywhere from $7,000 to $10,000 annually.

Since Tulsa closed a losing football season last fall there have been recurring newspaper reports that part or all of its intercollegiate athletic program was jeopardized by climbing costs and dwindling revenue.

Unofficial estimates have set the losses for the 1952-53 participation in all sports at close to $90,000, about $50,000 of which reportedly was eliminated by public subscription to a Tulsa Quarterback Club fund-raising campaign. Other estimates have set the possible deficit for 1953-54 as high as $125,000.

In St. Louis, Arthur Ellers, commissioner of the Missouri Valley Conference, said he was sorry to hear about the University's decision, but added "they know their own problems."

The departure of Tulsa from spring sports leaves tennis, golf and baseball a five-team valley affair. The track championship, with St. Louis University falling to field a team last spring, apparently will become a four-way contest among the other members—Oklahoma A & M, Houston, Wichita and Detroit.

Three new teams appear among the INS top ten. LSU and Notre Dame entered the ranking elite, while Minnesota, which dropped down last week, climbed back into ninth place.

Duquesne rang up two triumphs, over Cincinnati and Niagara, to extend its victory string to 15 and hang onto second place. The Ducks take the week off as do many other teams because of semester examinations.

Indiana stayed in third place in the rankings but took over the undisputed lead in the Big Ten with victories over Purdue and Wisconsin. Iowa, which had been challenging the Hoosiers, lost to Minnesota Saturday night.

In fourth place again this week is Oklahoma A&M. The Aggies downed Kansas and Tulsa in two close games last week to bring their record to 15-1.

The rankings from fifth through 20th were completely reshuffled as conference warfare began to produce its customary number of upsets.

The California Bears, now firmly established as the top power on the Pacific Coast, took over the No. 5 spot from fallen Holy Cross. Two victories—over tough Stanford—brought the Golden Bears' season mark to 14-1.

cats won prestige for the C schools last week by stopping Minden, a B leader.

Clarkson beat Brainerd to leap into fifth place while the losers drop to seventh behind Cairo.

Chappell falls from first place after a close win at Imperial, a team with only a fair record. The defending champions looked potent until the Imperial shave and may rebound with impressive performances this week.

Chadron Prep, Hartington and Grant complete the class.

Behind Glenvil is Edison, 15 point conqueror of Holbrook last week, Chester edges Murdock for third and Red Willow of McCook latches on to fifth.

Clay Center is sixth after a one-point win at Newman Grove. Reynolds, victor over Chester earlier, holds position No. 7.

Hampton and Lyman are eighth and ninth with Craig and Weston tied for tenth.

Craig stopped Weston last week by two points and knocked the active Bobcats from second place. Weston has played more games than any other team in the state and has pushed strong Brainerd of Class C.

Craig has been moving well after two early defeats.

Charles' Hook That Flattened Satterfield Looked Like Joe's

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—Caught short:

That tremendous left hook which Ezzard Charles flattened Bob Satterfield the other night must have been thrown from memory—the memory of the left which Jersey Joe Walcott landed on Ezzard's jaw in winning the heavyweight title.

It was a beautiful blow, if you admire violence and the tingle to the sight of a man being knocked unconscious. It looked to be stout enough to put any man down, but appearances are deceptive.

Satterfield is renowned as a slugger, but also as a man with an allergy when it comes to punches to the jaw, and a punch which would make him lose all interest in his immediate surroundings would leave a lessening individual upright, if blinking rapidly.

Such an individual as Rocky Marciano, for example. After watching Marciano take the best Walcott could hand out at Philadelphia, we believe he could take a half-dozen shots such as the one that disposed of Satterfield and still keep coming.

In fact, his ability to take it won the championship for him, and made his next fight with Walcott a quickie. Walcott knew he had hit Rocky solidly time and again. We still recall one body punch literally lifting Marciano off his feet.

Nothing happened, and the knowledge that his best blows couldn't stop Marciano unquestionably left a sense of futility and frustration which made him an easy victim in their next meeting.

Regardless of the potency of Charles' punch, or lack of same, we believe he is the best opponent for the champion right now, but we'd like to warn him that if he was confused by the swarming tactics of Satterfield he'd best beware. Satterfield's swarming is just a gentle, leisurely buzzing compared to what he might expect when Marciano comes out of his corner.

Eddie Stanky again is setting the price of meat at $2 a pound. It's going to cost each of his St. Louis Cardinals that much for each pound he takes to training camp in excess to the limit set by the scrappy little manager.

If memory serves, Stanky himself was forced to fork over

Dulles For Changing U.N., But Against Scrapping It

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said Monday the United Nations charter could stand changing, but that throwing it away to start afresh would be opening "a Pandora's Box."

The way Dulles put it, to a Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee, it was a delicate problem. He said the U. N. charter is far from perfect, but that it is better than nothing and must not be killed by any cure.

Then, in reply to questions from Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.), he cited the myth in which over curious Pandora lifted the lid of a magic box for a peek inside and let loose all the evils of the world.

Changes Authorized

Sparkman's questions came as the subcommittee opened public hearings on proposed revision of the U. N. charter. Changes are authorized in the charter itself and the U. N. General Assembly has voted to hold a charter review conference in 1956.

Were there any changes, Sparkman wanted to know, which Russia could not block with a veto? Dulles said yes, depending upon world opinion, to which, he added, the Russians are more sensitive than the free world may realize.

What about writing an entirely new charter?

"You'd be opening a Pandora's Box," Dulles said, and he expressed doubt that all present U. N. members could be brought back into whatever successor organization might be created.

Dulles emphasized that no nation—and he singled out Red China—can be brought into the U. N. unless it respects "the elemental decencies of international conduct."

Eased Credit Seen By Head Of Land Bank

E. N. Van Horne, president of the Federal Land Bank of Omaha, has painted a picture of eased credit, steady to firming farm prices and a general leveling-off of the agricultural readjustment for Nebraska farmers in 1954.

"The fact that we have pulled out of a 10-year inflationary period with a few bumps," he said, "does not mean we have plunged through the floor of solvency. With the stabilization that has come there is still a good field for profitable operation where there is good management and confidence."

He addressed the annual meeting of the Lincoln National Farm Loan Association attended by 250 members at the Lincoln hotel.

Association secretary-treasurer J. D. Berkeybile told the group that the Lincoln association's loans at the end of 1953 were $80,000 less than a year ago when $1,765,600 were in force to 328 borrowers. But he said that $8,447 were paid in dividends in 1953 representing the usual 10 per cent return to members, and added that the Lincoln association remains one of the few farm credit institutions continuing to make loans at four per cent.

Van Horne based his optimism on the area's short supply of hogs "which should bring higher market prices," and to what he termed the "depletion of surplus cattle during 1953 through heavy sales."

The association re-elected James Hoy, Lincoln, to the board of directors. He has been association president.
